ONLY PRELIMINARY REGULATIONS COMPLIED WITH IN OPENING SESSIONS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Dec. 7.—With accustomed solemnity and simple ceremony the sixty-ninth congress convened here at noon today to cope with tax reduction, the world court, farm relief and matters of air defense.

It was the Coolidge congress rolled in by the tremendous majority of the chief executive in the election last year which today assumed legislative control of the nation.

The parliamentary clatter of gavels at noon stilled the buzz of conversation in the chambers of the senate and the house and officially opened the regular session.

The familiar faces of many statesmen who died or were defeated were absent but in their places were the ambitions of a younger generation. There were four newcomers to the senate, selected since the special session last March and the first official step of the new congress was taken when they marched down before the rostrum to be sworn in by Vice President Charles G. Dawes. The house had no special March session like the senate and one third of the entire membership took the oath of office as new members.

In the galleries watching the preliminary ritual were the highest diplomats and social lights of the capital. Women gowned in fashion, ambassadors in brilliant gold braided uniforms, army and navy officials, statesmen in their frocked coats and retired senators and congressmen all gave color to the opening scene.

Only the preliminary regulations were complied with in the opening sessions and the actual business of legislation will not begin until tomorrow.

In the house republicans went through the function of electing Rep. Nicholas Longworth, republican, Ohio, as speaker, although the election amounted to little more than a formality because of the undisputed republican majority. Prayer was rendered by the chaplain and requirements of the constitution were complied with, in preparation for beginning consideration of the new tax bill Wednesday. The official totals on the first roll call showed 247 republicans, 183 democrats, 3 farmer-laborites and 2 socialists, comprising the personnel, thus assuring the administration undisputed control.

In the senate Dawes called the session to order and prayer was recited by the regular chaplain. There the list showed 56 republicans, 39 democrats and 1 farmer-laborite but the anti-administration color of many of the republicans left the numerical majority of the republicans considerably in doubt.

The four new senators were: Geo. H. Williams, St. Louis, Mo., republican appointed to take the seat made vacant by the death of Seldon P. Spencer; Robert M. LaFollette, junior, elected to the seat of his father; Gerald Nye, appointed to succeed Senator Ladd, and Arthur R. Robinson of Indianapolis, succeeding Senator Ralston who died.

Under the surface of joviality of comrades back together again from the 48 states after nine months at home there was the deep rooted spirit of antagonism over the legislative battles to come. There was anticipation of the quarrels to come over tax reduction, Muscle Shoals, the world court, farm relief and the air service furore which jam the calendar for what was intended to be a short session.

Leaders of both houses intend to adjourn in June if possible. The session can hardly be carried on through the summer because 27 senators and one third of the house are up for re-election in November and must be home long before that time to carry on their campaigns.

If the program is to be cleared, however, a longer session will be required.

The first question to be taken up is the new tax bill. Everything is oiled for its quick adoption by the house. Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee intends to bring it up day after tomorrow and limit debate so that a vote can be had next Monday at the latest. Green intends to have only four days of discussion.

The bill will strike a snag in the senate, however. It probably will not be reported out of the finance committee until the middle of January and its opponents are primed for a long drawn out attack upon it. Until the tax bill is ready the senate will take up proposals for American adherence to the international

INSURGENTS ARE ALREADY ON WAR PATH

Washington, Dec. 7.—With its insurgents already on the war path, the body that is to provide the new $325,000,000 tax reduction and wrestle with the world court, farm relief, prohibition, the Mitchell air defense program and coal legislation comes into power.

Only the formalities of convening were scheduled for the opening day but underneath the surface of the ceremony lay a new bitterness engendered by a row between the LaFollette groups and the majority administration republicans.

In a statement on the eve of the opening of congress the Wisconsin delegation in the house, backed by those claiming to represent "progressives of North Dakota, Minnesota, New York and Illinois, declared its defiance of the administration organization and announced it would follow the same program it inaugurated in the last session when it held the balance of power.

The action interrupted peace moves which had been prominent during the pre-session maneuvering and reprisals are expected to follow.

The insurgents decided that they would reject proffered "bargaining or compromise" from the administration group and refuse to vote for the republican candidate, Rep. Nicholas Longworth as speaker.

They will cast their ballots, their statement said, for Rep. Henry Allen Cooper, the aged Wisconsin insurgent, who presented the insurgent platform to the convention that nominated Mr. Coolidge in Cleveland last year.

"Under the circumstances we cannot vote for Mr. Longworth," the statement read. "Neither flattery nor suggestions concerning committee assignments nor threats will cause the Wisconsin delegation in the house to deviate from such course of action as, in its judgment, the public seems to require."

An hour before the session opened, the republicans of the senate were to meet in conference to determine what should be done regarding Senators LaFollette, Nye, Brookhart and Frazier, the senate insurgents. Preparations had been made for the welcoming of LaFollette in the republican ranks but the turn of his house group may have an effect upon the arrangements.

The legal right of Nye to his appointment by Gov. Sorlie, North Dakota, will be questioned by Sen. Ernst, republican, chairman of the privileges and elections committee on the floor.

Ernst will ask that Nye's credentials be referred to the privileges and elections committee and that administration of the oath be withheld. Nye's colleague, Sen. Frazier, nonpartisan leaguer, of North Dakota, has indicated that he will introduce a resolution demanding that Nye be immediately seated and thereby throw the entire matter before the senate for debate.

After the formalities of organization it is proposed that both houses should adjourn in respect to members that have died during the recess. The leaders will meet Mr. Coolidge tomorrow when he returns from Chicago and present him with the usual resolutions announcing that congress is in session and ready to do business.

Despite the insurgent opposition, Longworth will be easily elected. Republicans have sufficient votes without the aid of the Wisconsin delegation and other scattered ballots. The demands will go through the formality of nominating and voting for their floor leader, Rep. Finis Garrett, Tennessee, as a mark of respect, but there is no possibility of his election.

BRILLIANT RITUAL OF OPENING CEREMONY

Freight Rates Asked by the Railroads Run to 50 Per Cent Increases---Cities Affected by I. C. C. Include Brainerd

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Freight rate advances amounting in some cases to 50 per cent between various Minnesota points were asked of the state railroad and warehouse commission today by railroads ordered to show reason why rates set by the state board should not be in force rather than those dictated by the interstate commerce commission.

Representatives of the roads involved countered the commission order with a statement that the only solution for problems arising from the two conflicting scales is a general increase in state levels to conform with interstate regulations. A decision by Chief Justice William H. Taft in the Wisconsin rate case was cited by the railroads in support of their contention.

Cities affected by the interstate commerce commission order are: St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Crookston, Fergus Falls, Detroit, Sauk Centre, Thief River Falls, Wadena, Brainerd, St. Cloud, Willmar, Albert Lea, Rochester, Mankato, Winona and Pipestone. The rates between these points are considerably higher than for towns still under state regulation.

As an example of the unfairness of this situation, A. L. Flinn, commission rate expert, pointed out that Brooten, a Soo Line point, is charged 30 cents a hundred pounds higher than Belgrade, the next station east and only a few miles away.

Shippers in various Minnesota cities countered with statements to the commission declaring they will establish motor truck freighting service if higher rates to them are not reduced or if a general increase is granted.

FARMER SHOT 18 YEAR OLD NEIGHBOR BOY

DAUGHTER HAD ADMITTED INTIMACY WITH HIM

LOUIS BRUEY, SLAYER, GIVES SELF UP, RELEASED ON BOND

Fairfield, Iowa, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Louis Bruey, farmer who shot and killed Sam McNeese, 18-year-old son of a neighbor, during a blizzard Saturday after his daughter had admitted intimacy with McNeese, was free under $15,000 bond today, charged with second degree murder.

Released from prison, Bruey today drove his team of horses back thru five miles of snow drifted roads, returning Edna, 14, and another daughter to his farm home. It was Edna who tearfully told him of intimacies with McNeese and precipitated the killing.

The tragedy rocked the entire community. After casually asking McNeese to "drop in" Bruey met the young farmer at the door, queried "Are you sorry," and without waiting for a reply, killed him with a shotgun.

With the body of his victim in one room, Bruey went to the telephone and called the sheriff, telling him that the blizzard prevented him from going to Fairfield to surrender and asking authorities to come after him. The sheriff and two deputies finally battled their way through the raging storm and reached the Bruey home to arrest the father.

FIRE THREATENED TO DESTROY LEONARD

Bemidji, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Fire destroyed three buildings and for a time threatened destruction of the entire village of Leonard, 23 miles northwest of here, today. Loss is estimated at between $7,000 and $8,000.

Although the village is without fire protection apparatus, citizens prevented spread of flames from the three buildings destroyed until firemen from Clearbrook, 10 miles distant, arrived.

The fire started from uncertain cause in the rear of the Skime Brothers store. It spread to a shoe repair shop and barber shop, all located on the same corner. The buildings were consumed before the neighboring fire department arrived.

A new congress to the nation's business.

The crack of gavels hushed a buzz of conversation and a general round of handshaking among the assembling members and the big show was auspiciously opened.

In the house Dr. Shera Montgomery intoned a prayer and in the senate Rev. J. J. Muir asked divine guidance. Then the formal business was set under way.

Dawes ordered the roll to be called and when all had answered their names and it was ascertained that a quorum was present, the four new senators, LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin; Williams, republican, Missouri; Robinson, republican, Indiana, and Nye, republican, North Dakota, arose to be sworn.

Page, in the house, ordered the roll called by states and when it was concluded, he announced nominations for the speakership were in order.

Representative "Nick" Longworth was nominated as the republican candidate; Rep. Finis Garrett, as democratic, and Rep. Henry Allen Cooper, Wisconsin, as insurgent.

Tellers were appointed by Page and stationed themselves at the front of the chamber while members filed slowly through, casting their votes.

TO INVESTIGATE PLANE ACCIDENT AT ST. PAUL TODAY

St. Paul, Dec. 7.—(UP)—A board of officers of the 109th aviation squadron, Minnesota national guard, today started investigation of the airplane crash late yesterday that resulted in the death of Lieut. E. A. Michaud and serious injury of W. E. Hilliard, 60.

Michaud, a prominent business man and sportsman, although not a rated pilot, was flying the ship. Technically, therefore, he was without authorization to pilot the plane. Under the circumstances, officers explained, a board inquiry will be necessary.

WITNESS HAS BEEN THREATENED WITH DIRE DEATH

WM. MCGINNIS, MINNEAPOLIS ENGINEER, GAVE INFORMATION

GAVE POLICE CLUE THAT REV. BIRKELAND HAD BEEN KIDNAPED

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—William McGinnis, Minneapolis engineer, who gave police information bearing out the theory that Knute B. Birkeland, wealthy former minister, was kidnapped and murdered, has been threatened with death, police revealed today.

On the night of Birkeland's mysterious disappearance, McGinnis told police, he was forced off the sidewalk in front of the apartment where the body was later found, by three men, two of whom were helping a third, apparently intoxicated or drugged. The helpless member of the trio answered Birkeland's description.

To test the validity of McGinnis' story, police piled a number of overcoats in a corner at headquarters. The informant was told to single out the one worn by the man he saw carried in the direction of the death apartment. Birkeland's was the one unhesitatingly selected.

Further credence is given McGinnis' information by the visitation of an unknown man who represented himself as a private detective and told the engineer his life was in danger. No detective can be found who conferred alone with McGinnis or made such a statement.

Detectives believe the threat was from Birkeland's murderers and that the self-represented detective was connected with the abduction plot.

WEEK-END TRAFFIC DEATHS IN TWIN CITIES

Minneapolis, Dec. 7.—(UP)—One girl is recovering today from injuries received in the same automobile accident that resulted in one fatality, the only week-end traffic death in the twin cities.

Mamie Hakil died after an automobile had skidded, crushing her against a street hydrant. Florence Gosh, her companion, was seriously injured but is expected to recover.

Titian Masterpiece to Be Given Showing

Minneapolis, Dec. 7.—(UP)—"The Temptation of Christ," famous Titian masterpiece recently acquired by the Minneapolis Institute of Art, will be given its first public northwest showing next Sunday, it was announced today.

Exhibited in New York, this month, the painting drew record throngs. It is enroute here this week and will be shown privately to members of the institute Saturday night.

LONGWORTH IS NAMED SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

THE OPENING SESSION REVEALS PLAINLY THE INSURGENT BATTLE FRONT

LATTER CAST THEIR BALLOTS FOR REP. ALLEN COOPER

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Dec. 7.—The 69th congress convened today and immediately ran into the old insurgent controversy.

Rep. Nicholas Longworth, Ohio, was elected speaker of the house, as had been stated. But the opening session showed plainly the fight the insurgents plan to make upon administration programs.

The outstanding development behind all the frills of organizing the house and senate, which were elected with President Coolidge 18 months ago, was an announcement by house democrats that they would support the insurgents against any change in the present rules, thus embarrassing republicans who had planned the change.

At the same time the insurgents refused as they said they would, to vote for the republican candidate, Rep. Longworth, for house leader, and cast the ballots for one of their own number, Rep. Henry Allen Cooper, Wisconsin, although knowing that Longworth was assured of election.

Senate republicans re-raised the important issue with their leaders and the contemplated meeting of the republican committee on committees was called off so that some decision could be reached as to what is to be done with Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., who not only ignored an invitation to a republican conference Saturday but attended a conference of house insurgents meeting simultaneously.

The issue over seating of another insurgent, Sen. Gerald P. Nye, non-partisan leaguer of North Dakota, was avoided in the senate when his colleagues agreed to refer the question to the senate privileges and elections committee as made by his friend, Sen. Frazier, another non-partisan leaguer from the same state.

The senate held only a 25 minutes' session in which the formalities of organization were transacted and adjournment was taken until tomorrow, when President Coolidge's message will be read.

The three new senators, LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin; Robinson, republican, Indiana, and Williams, republican, Missouri, whose rights to their seats were uncontested, were duly sworn and admitted to their seats.

Longworth succeeds Sen. Frederick Gillett of Massachusetts who advanced from the speakership which he held in the last congress to the upper house.

In an inaugural speech, accepting the office, Longworth expressed gratification to his republican colleagues and predicted the coming session would be a legislative voyage practically without partisan division.

The vote on the speakership was: Longworth, republican, 229.

Finis Garrett, democrat, 173.

Henry Allen Cooper, insurgent, 13. Five republicans voted "present."

Announcement of the vote was greeted with silence as Longworth's election had been a foregone conclusion since he was nominated last spring by the republican majority.

PORTLY WOMAN BANDIT BEATS VICTIM UNCONSCIOUS

Minneapolis, Dec. 7.—(UP)—A portly woman bandit described as 30 years old and 200 pounds heavy, today beat Mrs. Catherine Hoyt, 67, into unconsciousness in an effort to rob the aged woman's rooming house. Mrs. Hoyt's condition is said to be serious at the hospital where she was taken. The bandit escaped but without loot.

Had Plans to Give Welcome to La Follette

Washington, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The scheduled meeting of the Republican committee on committees of the senate was indefinitely postponed today because of action of Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., in attending an insurgent meeting Saturday instead of the Republican caucus.

Plans had been made to welcome LaFollette into the party ranks but his defiance of the Republican invitation coupled with his attendance at the house insurgent meeting caused the Republican leaders to delay action.

LaFollette's action caused a group of Republicans to rebel against the proposal that he be assigned to committees as a Republican. They insist that his attendance at an opposition meeting gives proof that he will not act as a party member in the senate and that the same medicine should be meted out to him as was given his father and three of his followers, who were barred from the Republican caucus last year.

It has long been customary for both parties to decide all organization matters before congress convenes and delay is granted only in cases of extreme necessity.

The question probably will be ironed out by the leaders during the day and a committee meeting held late today or tomorrow.

TAX REDUCTION BILL IS TRULY NONPARTISAN

Washington, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The $325,000,000 tax reduction bill is a "nonpartisan" measure and will do the maximum good to all people, ways and means committee informed the house today in introducing the revenue measure.

Slashes proposed in the bill, the committee said, are apportioned so that every taxpayer will be benefited. "On none of the votes taken in committee on the provisions of the bills," the committee said, "did the committee divide on partisan lines. With the exception of the periods when the nation was at war, it is the first time a great revenue bill has been so framed."

PRESIDENT'S FATHER HEARS SON TALK OVER THE RADIO

Plymouth, Vt., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Col. John C. Coolidge heard over his radio today the address which the president delivered in Chicago.

Receiving conditions were nearly perfect and the colonel said he could hear his son's voice "almost as well as if it were in the same room."

SIX CARLOADS OF ROUGH FISH TAKEN

Willmar, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Six carloads of rough fish have been taken from Eagle lake near here in the last month, V. E. Cantenhein, in charge of a seining crew, announced today. Each carload weighed between 20,000 and 30,000 pounds when shipped east. The record single haul in the month of operations was 70,000 pounds.

Rewards Offered to Solve Murder Mystery

Hutchinson, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—A total of $1,500 reward is offered here today for information which will lead to solution of the mysterious death of Frank Micka, found apparently murdered in October.

The estate has offered $1,000, and the McLeod county commission $500. Micka's body was found concealed at the side of a country road near his farm. Robbery was thought the motive for murder.

P. R. WADSWORTH FILES FOR CONGRESS IN SIXTH DISTRICT

St. Paul, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Peter R. Wadsworth, Cass Lake attorney, today filed his candidacy for nomination to congress from the sixth district with the secretary of state. He is the first formally to announce entrance into the primary race next June.

ADDRESSES THE FARM BUREAU CHICAGO MEETING

WARNS AGAINST GOVERNMENT PRICE FIXING AS A PANACEA

LAUDS CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING AS WAY TO FARM PROSPERITY

By LUDWELL DENNY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Dec. 7.—High lights of President Coolidge's farm speech here today:

"Notwithstanding its present embarrassments agriculture as a whole should lead industry in future prosperity."

"I propose actively and energetically to assist the farmers to promote their welfare through co-operative marketing. They do not wish to put the government into the farming business."

"Wherever there is a farm there is the greatest opportunity for a true home."

"In intelligence, in education, in the general standards of living, farm life was never so well equipped as it is today."

"Some people would grow poor on a mountain of gold, while others would make a good living on a rock."

Chicago, Dec. 7.—President Coolidge today defended the present tariff as an aid to farmers, warned against government price fixing as a panacea for agriculture's ills and lauded co-operative marketing as a way to farm prosperity.

Addressing the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation here, the president enumerated the steps by which he believes agriculture can be put on a sound and independent basis.

These included extension of adequate storage facilities, co-operative marketing, information and advice from the agriculture department and farm loan bank credits. Without discussing any of these in detail, Mr. Coolidge devoted most of his speech to exposing alleged fallacies of government marketing panaceas and emphasizing farm benefits resulting from protective tariff.

Leaders in the co-operative movement and the agriculture department have prepared a farm bill embodying his principles, he said.

The president opposed proposals for government corporations which would directly or indirectly fix prices or buy and sell farm products, because, he said, they would create bureaucracy, destroy co-operatives and the farmers' independence and stimulate over-production, ending in "complete collapse."

Elaborate statistics were produced by the president to show that the present tariff rates benefit the farmers and should not be revised. With over 50 major articles purchased by the farmers already on the free list, he said there remains "only 12 per cent of outside imports upon which the agricultural industry pays any part of the tariff."

"The total adverse cost to the farmer on account of the tariff is only between two per cent and three per cent of his purchases. "On the other side, protection is a great benefit to agriculture as a whole. The $780,000,000 of agricultural produce imported last year had to pay $260,000,000 for the privilege of coming into the U. S. to compete with our own farm production. Protection greatly aids diversification and so eliminates an unprofitable surplus. Any study of dairy products, flax, wool and many other commodities will demonstrate that it does."

In aiding industry the present tariff helps agriculture because "prosperity in our industries is of more value to the farmer than the whole export market for foodstuffs," he added.

Instead of in tariff revision and price fixing, the president saw hope in the farm loan and intermediate credit banks which have loaned $1,200,000,000 at moderate rates to 350,000 farmers, and in co-operative marketing.

"For a more orderly marketing calculated to secure a better range of prices, the co-operative movement promises the greatest success," he said. "Already they are handling $2,500,000,000 of farm produce, or (Continued on Page 4)"

Fairfield, Iowa, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Louis Bruey, farmer who shot and killed Sam McNeese, 18-year-old son of a neighbor, during a blizzard Saturday after his daughter had admitted intimacy with McNeese, was free under $15,000 bond today, charged with second degree murder.

Released from prison, Bruey today drove his team of horses back through five miles of snow drifted roads, returning Edna, 14, and another daughter to his farm home. It was Edna who tearfully told him of intimacies with McNeese and precipitated the killing.

The tragedy rocked the entire community. After casually asking McNeese to "drop in" Bruey met the young farmer at the door, queried "Are you sorry?" and without waiting for a reply, killed him with a shotgun.

With the body of his victim in one room, Bruey went to the telephone and called the sheriff, telling him that the blizzard prevented him from going to Fairfield to surrender and asking authorities to come after him. The sheriff and two deputies finally battled their way through the raging storm and reached the Bruey home to arrest the father.

FIRE THREATENED TO DESTROY LEONARD

Bemidji, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Fire destroyed three buildings and for a time threatened destruction of the entire village of Leonard, 23 miles northwest of here, today. Loss is estimated at between $7,000 and $8,000.

Although the village is without fire protection apparatus, citizens prevented spread of flames from the three buildings destroyed until firemen from Clearbush, 10 miles distant, arrived.

The fire started from uncertain cause in the rear of the Skime Brothers store. It spread to a shoe repair shop and barber shop, all located on the same corner. The buildings were consumed before the neighboring fire department arrived.

The crack of gavels hushed a buzz of conversation and a general roar of handshaking among the assembling members and the big show was auspiciously opened.

In the house Dr. Shera Montgomery intoned a prayer and in the senate Rev. J. J. Muir asked divine guidance. Then the formal business was set under way.

Dawes ordered the roll to be called and when all had answered their names and it was ascertained that a quorum was present, the four new senators, LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin; Williams, republican, Missouri; Robinson, republican, Indiana, and Nye, republican, North Dakota, arose to be sworn.

Page, in the house, ordered the roll called by states and when it was concluded, he announced nominations for the speakership were in order.

Representative "Nick" Longworth was nominated as the republican candidate; Rep. Finis Garrett, as democratic, and Rep. Henry Allen Cooper, Wisconsin, as insurgent.

Tellers were appointed by Page and stationed themselves at the front of the chamber while members filed slowly through, casting their votes.

TO INVESTIGATE PLANE ACCIDENT AT ST. PAUL TODAY

St. Paul, Dec. 7.—(UP)—A board of officers of the 109th aviation squadron, Minnesota national guard, today started investigation of the airplane crash late yesterday that resulted in the death of Lieut. E. A. Michaud and serious injury of W. E. Hilliard, 60.

Michaud, a prominent business man and sportsman, although not a rated pilot, was flying the ship. Technically, therefore, he was without authorization to pilot the plane. Under the circumstances, officers explained, a board inquiry will be necessary.

WITNESS HAS BEEN THREATENED WITH DIRE DEATH

WM. MCGINNIS, MINNEAPOLIS ENGINEER, GAVE INFORMATION

GAVE POLICE CLUE THAT REV. BIRKELAND HAD BEEN KIDNAPED

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—William McGinnis, Minneapolis engineer, who gave police information bearing out the theory that Knute Birkeland, wealthy former minister, was kidnapped and murdered, has been threatened with death, police revealed today.

On the night of Birkeland's mysterious disappearance, McGinnis told police, he was forced off the sidewalk in front of the apartment where the body was later found, by three men, two of whom were helping a third, apparently intoxicated or drugged. The helpless member of the trio answered Birkeland's description.

To test the validity of McGinnis' story, police piled a number of overcoats in a corner at headquarters. The informant was told to single out the one worn by the man he saw carried in the direction of the death apartment. Birkeland's was the one unhesitatingly selected.

Further credence is given McGinnis' information by the visitation of an unknown man who represented himself as a private detective and told the engineer his life was in danger. No detective can be found who conferred alone with McGinnis or made such a statement.

Detectives believe the threat was from Birkeland's murderers and that the self-represented detective was connected with the abduction plot.

WEEK-END TRAFFIC DEATHS IN TWIN CITIES

Minneapolis, Dec. 7.—(UP)—One girl is recovering today from injuries received in the same automobile accident that resulted in one fatality, the only week-end traffic death in the twin cities.

Mamie Hakli died after an automobile had skidded, crushing her against a street hydrant. Florence Gosh, her companion, was seriously injured but is expected to recover.

Titian Masterpiece to Be Given Showing

Minneapolis, Dec. 7.—(UP)—"The Temptation of Christ," famous Titian masterpiece recently acquired by the Minneapolis Institute of Art, will be given its first public northwest showing next Sunday, it was announced today.

Exhibited in New York, this month, the painting drew record throngs. It is enroute here this week and will be shown privately to members of the institute Saturday night.

LONGWORTH IS NAMED SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

THE OPENING SESSION REVEALS BATTLE FRONT

LATTER CAST THEIR BALLOTS FOR REP. ALLEN COOPER

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Dec. 7.—The new 69th congress convened today and immediately ran into the old insurgent controversy.

Rep. Nicholas Longworth, Ohio, was elected speaker of the house, as had been slated. But the opening session showed plainly the fight the insurgents plan to make upon administration programs.

The outstanding development behind all the frills of organizing the house and senate, which were elected with President Coolidge 18 months ago, was an announcement by house democrats that they would support the insurgents against any change in the present rules, thus embarrassing the republicans who had planned the change.

At the same time the insurgents refused as they said they would, to vote for the republican candidate, Rep. Longworth, for house leader, and cast the ballots for one of their own number, Rep. Henry Allen Cooper, Wisconsin, although knowing that Longworth was assured of election.

Senate republicans re-raised the important issue with their leaders and the contemplated meeting of the republican committee on committees was called off so that some decision could be reached as to what is to be done with Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., who not only ignored an invitation to a republican conference Saturday but attended a conference of house insurgents meeting simultaneously.

The issue over seating of another insurgent, Sen. Gerald P. Nye, non-partisan leaguer of North Dakota, was avoided in the senate when his colleagues agreed to refer the question to the senate privileges and elections committee as made by his friend, Sen. Frazier, another non-partisan leaguer from the same state.

The senate held only a 25 minutes' session in which the formalities of organization were transacted and adjournment was taken until tomorrow, when President Coolidge's message will be read.

The three new senators, LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin; Robinson, republican, Indiana, and Williams, republican, Missouri, whose rights to their seats were uncontested, were duly sworn and admitted to their seats.

Longworth succeeds Sen. Frederick Gillett of Massachusetts who advanced from the speakership which he held in the last congress to the upper house.

In an inaugural speech, accepting the office, Longworth expressed gratification to his republican colleagues and predicted the coming session would be a legislative voyage practically without partisan division.

The vote on the speakership was: Longworth, republican, 229; Finis Garrett, democrat, 173; Henry Allen Cooper, insurgent, 13.

Five republicans voted "present." Announcement of the vote was greeted with silence as Longworth's election had been a foregone conclusion since he was nominated last spring by the republican majority.

Died at Police Station
St. Paul—Edward Coffee, about 54, died at the police station yesterday shortly after he had been arrested for disorderly conduct. Death was caused by alcoholism. Police are searching for his relatives.

PORTLY WOMAN BANDIT BEATS VICTIM UNCONSCIOUS

Minneapolis, Dec. 7.—(UP)—A portly woman bandit described as 30 years old and 200 pounds heavy, today beat Mrs. Catherine Hoyt, 67, into unconsciousness in an effort to rob the aged woman's rooming house. Mrs. Hoyt's condition is said to be serious at the hospital where she was taken. The bandit escaped but without loot.

Had Plans to Give Welcome to LaFollette

Washington, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The scheduled meeting of the Republican committee on committees of the senate was indefinitely postponed today because of action of Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., in attending an insurgent meeting Saturday instead of the Republican caucus.

Plans had been made to welcome LaFollette into the party ranks but his defiance of the Republican invitation coupled with his attendance at the house insurgent meeting caused the Republican leaders to delay action.

LaFollette's action caused a group of Republicans to rebel against the proposal that he be assigned to committees as a Republican. They insist that his attendance at an opposition meeting gives proof that he will not act as a party member in the senate and that the same medicine should be meted out to him as was given his father and three of his followers, who were barred from the Republican caucus last year.

It has long been customary for both parties to decide all organization matters before congress convenes and delay is granted only in cases of extreme necessity.

The question probably will be ironed out by the leaders during the day and a committee meeting held late today or tomorrow.

TAX REDUCTION BILL IS TRULY NONPARTISAN

Washington, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The $325,000,000 tax reduction bill is a nonpartisan measure and will be the maximum good to all people, the house today in introducing the measure.

Slashes proposed in the bill, the committee said, are apportioned so that every taxpayer will be benefited. "On none of the votes taken in committee on the provisions of the bill," the committee said, "did the committee divide on partisan lines. With the exception of the periods when the nation was at war, it is the first time a great revenue bill has been so framed."

PRESIDENT'S FATHER HEARS SON TALK OVER THE RADIO

Plymouth, Vt., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Col. John C. Coolidge heard over his radio today the address which the president delivered in Chicago.

Receiving conditions were nearly perfect and the colonel said he could hear his son's voice "almost as well as if it were in the same room."

SIX CARLOADS OF ROUGH FISH TAKEN

Willmar, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Six carloads of rough fish have been taken from Eagle lake near here in the last month, V. E. Cantenbein, in charge of a seining crew, announced today. Each carload weighed between 20,000 and 30,000 pounds when shipped east. The record single haul in the month of operations was 70,000 pounds.

Rewards Offered to Solve Murder Mystery

Hutchinson, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—A total of $1,500 reward is offered here today for information which will lead to solution of the mysterious death of Frank Micka, found apparently murdered in October.

The estate has offered $1,000, and the McLeod county commission $500. Micka's body was found concealed at the side of a country road near his farm. Robbery was thought the motive for murder.

P. R. WADSWORTH FILES FOR CONGRESS IN SIXTH DISTRICT

St. Paul, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Peter R. Wadsworth, Cass Lake attorney, today filed his candidacy for nomination to congress from the sixth district with the secretary of state. He is the first formally to announce entrance into the primary race next June.

ADDRESSES THE FARM BUREAU CHICAGO MEETING

WARNS AGAINST GOVERNMENT PRICE FIXING AS A PANACEA

LAUDS CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING AS WAY TO FARM PROSPERITY

By LUDWELL DENNY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Dec. 7.—High lights of President Coolidge's farm speech here today:

"Notwithstanding its present embarrassments agriculture as a whole should lead industry in future prosperity."

"I propose actively and energetically to assist the farmers to promote their welfare through co-operative marketing. They do not wish to put the government into the farming business."

"Wherever there is a farm there is the greatest opportunity for a true home."

"In intelligence, in education, in the general standards of living, farm life was never so well equipped as it is today."

"Some people would grow poor on a mountain of gold, while others would make a good living on a rock."

Chicago, Dec. 7.—President Coolidge today defended the present tariff as an aid to farmers, warned against government price fixing as a panacea for agriculture's ills and lauded co-operative marketing as a way to farm prosperity.

Addressing the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation here, the president enumerated the steps by which he believes agriculture can be put on a sound independent basis.

These included extension of adequate storage facilities, co-operative marketing, information and advice from the agriculture department and farm loan bank credits. Without discussing any of these in detail, Mr. Coolidge devoted most of his speech to exposing alleged fallacies of government marketing panaceas and emphasizing farm benefits resulting from protective tariff.

Leaders in the co-operative movement and the agriculture department have prepared a farm bill embodying his principles, he said.

The president opposed proposals for government corporations which would directly or indirectly fix prices or buy and sell farm products, because, he said, they would create bureaucracy, destroy co-operatives and the farmers' independence and stimulate over-production, ending in "complete collapse."

Elaborate statistics were produced by the president to show that the present tariff rates benefit the farmers and should not be revised. With over 50 major articles purchased by the farmers already on the free list, he said there remains "only 12 per cent of outside imports upon which the agricultural industry pays any part of the tariff."

"The total adverse cost to the farmer on account of the tariff is only between two per cent and three per cent of his purchases."

"On the other side, protection is a great benefit to agriculture as a whole. The $780,000,000 of agricultural produce imported last year had to pay $260,000,000 for the privilege of coming into the U. S. to compete with our own farm production. Protection greatly aids diversification and so eliminates an unprofitable surplus. Any study of dairy products, flax, wool and many other commodities will demonstrate that it does."

In adding industry the present tariff helps agriculture because "prosperity in our industries is of more value to the farmer than the whole export market for foodstuffs," he added.

Instead of in tariff revision and price fixing, the president saw hope in the farm loan and intermediate credit banks which have loaned $1,200,000,000 at moderate rates to 350,000 farmers, and in co-operative marketing.

"For a more orderly marketing calculated to secure a better range of prices, the co-operative movement promises the greatest success," he said. "Already they are handling $2,500,000,000 of farm produce, or

STITZEL WRITES OF FLORIDA TRIP

Former Dispatch Scribe Gives His Impressions of Boom in Sunshine State

STORIES OF FLORIDA UNTRUE

Living Costs in Miami About The Same as in Brainerd Except Rents

The following letter has just been received by the Dispatch office:

Miami, Florida,
Dec. 1st, 1925

Hello Dispatch force:

We arrived Saturday afternoon, a day ahead of the schedule that we had set for the trip, and made two side excursions, too. The first one out of Chattanooga, Tenn., when we visited Lookout Mountain and the Chickamauga battlefields, and the second on Thanksgiving Day, when we went to St. Augustine, the oldest city in the U. S., and went through the ruins of the old Spanish fortress.

We enjoyed every minute of the trip immensely. Only had tire trouble once, didn't get into any rains or muddy roads, and had no accidents. The only really bad roads we encountered were in Southern Kentucky, and one can hardly call them roads; merely trails that consist of ledges of shale that are very hard on tires. If one makes $ miles per hour there it's fast traveling.

We kept track of the gasoline we used, out of curiosity, and fed 98 gallons through the old bus. If it is 2,300 miles down here, as several say it is, then we averaged 23 miles per gallon, which isn't bad mileage, considering the side trips and mountains we drove.

It was so cold on the trip that we couldn't camp out as we had planned to do, until we struck southern Tennessee, and then for only one night. Didn't try camping again until we struck southern Georgia, and then it wasn't very warm. The tourist camps through the south and in Florida are much different than ours at Brainerd. They are much larger and in addition to space for tents there are one and two room cabins that can be rented for the night. All have running water and electric lights, most of them have shower baths and sanitary sewerage systems. The fee runs from 25c to 75c per night for tent space. We didn't inquire what the cabins cost. There were 800 tourists in the camp we stopped in just across the Florida line in Georgia, and on the average of 1,000 in the camps in this state.

We got our first impressions of Miami and this section of the state on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. M. L. McClaran, formerly of Park Rapids, (Mrs. McC. is a sister of Kirk Smith) took us under their wing and entertained us all day. We motored during the morning, afternoon and evening, and dined at their home in Coral Gables, a suburb of this city.

I'm afraid to tell you what we saw, for I know you wouldn't want to believe me, as truthful as you know I am (?) and also its nearly impossible to explain the situation here. People down here think in hundreds of thousands and millions of dollars. They think nothing of paying $50,000 and $100,000 for a good residence lot, good in their estimation, that is, but to a Minnesotan who isn't imbued with the Florida spirit, or bitten by the land bug here, it is hardly worth 50 cents.

I thought I knew what driving in traffic means, having negotiated the busy streets of the twin cities and Chicago, but they are like country roads in comparison to driving here in Miami. I'd be a wreck if I drove much here.

The first thing that we found out, was that not half of the stories against Florida that we heard in the north and along the route, are true. Most of the stories one reads in the northern papers are pure propaganda, nothing more, and we are told that big banking institutions up there are responsible for these falsehoods, being afraid that too much of their funds will be withdrawn for investment down here. I can't swear to that, but I do know for a fact that most of the stories against this country are not true in any sense.

We were told, among other things, that living was "sky-high" here. We have found that groceries are no more expensive down here than in Brainerd. Milk and all dairy products are very expensive, but there are good substitutes so that we don't miss them. I bought a fine beefsteak last night for 30 cents per pound, which isn't bad, considering the fact that it was guaranteed to be northern beef, and one can tell immediately the difference between that and beef that is native here. The latter is very unpalatable. We buy dandy big grapefruit two for five cents. The big question is the housing problem, and that does make a fellow think. It can be solved by several families pooling together and taking a large house.

John has registered some heavy rainfalls in the Dispatch, but he has never touched what we went through on Sunday night and yesterday morning. According to the papers, (and I, personally, have no reason for doubting them) Miami suffered from the heaviest tropical rain in its history. One inch per hour fell for 14 hours. Perhaps I'd better repeat that so you won't think that I made a mistake, but better still, I'll enclose a clipping to prove my statement. Water in some down-town stores was nearly knee deep yesterday morning, and the water-damage runs into the millions. The heaviest rain in the history of the local weather bureau is 9 inches, we are told. I know some Northern localities that don't get any more than 14 inches of rain per season.

We have met several northern, or rather Brainerd folks. As I write this, Ed. Bane is sitting at my elbow. Werner Mahlum and Ted Krectzm (That isn't spelled right, but you know who I mean) are in the office. I met Kirk Smith Sunday and his wife, is expected here next Saturday.

Everyone tells us that opportunities down here for employment or for good investments, are excellent. I am going "job hunting" tomorrow and will prove the truth of that statement then. I just met a man a few minutes ago who says came here with $1,000 six months ago, and last week cleaned out his holdings for an even half million dollars. Sounds fishy, doesn't it? But if you have seen some of the quick turn-overs and large profits that have been made, you are ready to believe almost everything.

With all of the development that this state has had, Florida improvement hasn't even been scratched. And this improvement and development isn't alone in the hands of promoters. Uncle Sam is taking a big part in it, and his work is being done in a most substantial manner. I can see, now, with others here, that this isn't a boom, but a healthy development.

There maybe, and undoubtedly will be, a leveling of some of the land values, but not in the majority of cases, for big capitalists and moneyed men are investing here for their winter homes, and also in retail and wholesale enterprises, the latter with the idea of making their investments pay.

Since we arrived, the weather has been quite warm, around 70 today, and even warmer yesterday and Sunday. We are too close to the tropics down here for it to be otherwise. We learned from Ed. Bane of the death of R. R. Wise and Art Hagerberg, both of which were distinct surprises. No doubt there is much other Brainerd news that we have not learned as yet. As soon as we get settled will order the weekly Dispatch to keep in touch with the old home town.

Greetings to you all, upstairs and down, and best wishes to my successor. I hope they enjoy the work there as much as I did, and that they do better than yours truly, as I have no doubt they will do.

With best regards to all, I am,
Very sincerely,
STITZEL.

Tidal Rivers

The term "drowned river system" refers to such a system of tidal rivers as the Hudson, Delaware, Susquehanna, Potomac and James, wherein the trunk valley and its branches were submerged by the sea entering their lower parts because of a sinking of the edge of the continent. This has made possible wonderful harbors at the mouths of these tidal streams.

Gifts

According to the report of the Brainerd public library for November, the work is steadily increasing as new patrons are added, there being 150 new cards issued this month, 92 to adults, and 58 to children. 4,318 books were issued to 4,307 patrons. At this rate, books wear out rapidly and must be replaced and new ones added. This month there were 70 books added and fifteen of these were gifts.

The juvenile department is most happy to acknowledge the gift of twenty-five dollars from Mrs. Frank Hall, (the net proceeds from the Douglas Donaldson lecture on "Art in the Home.") This is especially welcome as we are devising ways and means by which to purchase some much needed tables and chairs for this department, our appropriation from the city being utterly inadequate. This gift will form a nest egg, to which we hope, others will be added, until we have our ideal department completed. Another egg, in the form of $5.00 is on its way to join the nest egg—a gift of the N. E. Improvement League. The department is most grateful for these gifts, and take this means of expressing their thanks to the donors.

Everyone tells us that opportunities down here for employment or for good investments, are excellent. I am going "job hunting" tomorrow and will prove the truth of that statement then. I just met a man a few minutes ago who they say came here with $1,000 six months ago, and last week cleaned out his holdings for an even half million dollars. Sounds fishy, doesn't it? But if you have seen some of the quick turn-overs and large profits that have been made, you are ready to believe almost everything.

With all of the development that this state has had, Florida improvement hasn't even been scratched. And this improvement and development isn't alone in the hands of promoters. Uncle Sam is taking a big part in it, and his work is being done in a most substantial manner. I can see, now, with others here, that this isn't a boom, but a healthy development.

There maybe, and undoubtedly will be, a leveling of some of the land values, but not in the majority of cases, for big capitalists and moneyed men are investing here for their winter homes, and also in retail and wholesale enterprises, the latter with the idea of making their investments pay.

Since we arrived, the weather has been quite warm, around 70 today, and even warmer yesterday and Sunday. We are too close to the tropics down here for it to be otherwise.

We learned from Ed. Bane of the death of R. R. Wise and Art Haggberg, both of which were distinct surprises. No doubt there is much other Brainerd news that we have not learned as yet. As soon as we get settled will order the weekly Dispatch to keep in touch with the old home town.

Greetings to you all, upstairs and down, and best wishes to my successor. I hope they enjoy the work there as much as I did, and that they do better than yours truly, as I have no doubt they will do.

With best regards to all, I am,

Very sincerely,

STITZEL

Tidal Rivers

The term "drowned river system" refers to such a system of tidal rivers as the Hudson, Delaware, Susquehanna, Potomac and James, wherein the trunk valley and its branches were submerged by the sea entering their lower parts because of a sinking of the edge of the continent. This has made possible wonderful harbors at the mouths of these tidal streams.

Gifts

According to the report of the Brainerd public library for November, the work is steadily increasing as new patrons are added, there being 150 new cards issued this month, 92 to adults, and 58 to children. 4,318 books were issued to 4,307 patrons. At this rate, books wear out rapidly and must be replaced and new ones added. This month there were 70 books added and fifteen of these were gifts.

The juvenile department is most happy to acknowledge the gift of twenty-five dollars from Mrs. Frank Hall, (the net proceeds from the Douglas Donaldson lecture on "Art in the Home.") This is especially welcome as we are devising ways and means by which to purchase some much needed tables and chairs for this department, our appropriation from the city being utterly inadequate. This gift will form a nest egg, to which we hope, others will be added, until we have our ideal department completed. Another egg, in the form of $5.00 is on its way to join the nest egg—a gift of the N. E. Improvement League. The department is most grateful for these gifts, and take this means of expressing their thanks to the donors.

THE TOWN MEETING

THE meeting called by Mayor Cain on last Friday night at which was represented many of the elective and appointive officers as well as civic bodies of the city may well have been called a town meeting.

One man who has long been identified with the civic interests of the city said that he never saw a more representative gathering of all those interested in the city's civic betterment. The spirit was excellent, and many of the suggestions made seemed practical. The remarks made were to the point. As a rule, speakers held firm to the purpose of the meeting. Things were brought out which Brainerd needs and which can be accomplished by co-operation.

The remarks made clearly demonstrated that the city receives its best from those who receive little, if any, compensation for their services. There were men present who had served up to 17 years most faithfully without any compensation whatever. Others had served for shorter periods and all seemed willing to give their best for the common interests of our city, for its moral, physical, mental and financial benefits. Mayor Cain is to be complimented upon his initiative in this matter and the city will surely benefit by it.

There was quite a discussion on the problem of poor relief in Brainerd. We doubt if any method can ever be adopted which will adequately meet the situation. You cannot expect the city to care for all the calls. The so-called "poor farm" system of county relief had some good points, but whatever they were, that system was voted down and out. The matter of poor relief, of taking care of our indigent citizens when they become old and are charges, is engrossing the attention of state legislatures too. In some states "sunset homes" have been instituted and the poor gaining admission are treated with every courtesy and friendliness. The hurry and strife of modern industrial forces, sickness and accident, reduces some citizens to want. Statistics of life insurance companies show accurately that out of every hundred starting out in life, a large percentage cannot take care of themselves at advanced ages.

Then there is another angle to poor relief. And that is that well-to-do relatives should share the burden and not thrust it all upon the state. In many cases the poor need hospital attention and that is something that can only be given by a hospital and not by a so-called "poor farm" or any other system.

Crow Wing county now leases its so-called "poor farm" for agricultural purposes. The farm is a valuable piece of property, containing, it is reported, valuable iron ore deposits. When this is mined, as it eventually will be, the property will become a source of income for the county, a real asset, and will serve to reduce our county taxes.

One of the results of the "town meeting" was the determination on the part of several leaders to see that some movement be started which would coordinate the work of the various agencies working for civic betterment. THE DISPATCH has called this to the attention of Brainerd, citing the example of Minneapolis, where some twenty civic clubs have formed a council composed of representatives from each club, meeting regularly and aiming to map out plans to prevent overlapping or duplication of civic work.

Such a council would outline more specifically the duties of each civic organization. Meetings of the representatives of the various organization would discuss the needs of the city and suggest to the organizations best fitted to perform such a task that it accept the leadership in such work. Perhaps no suggestion made was better received nor more favorably commented upon. Mayor Cain said it was this idea which inspired his calling of the meeting.

The frank discussions revealed an intense interest in city betterment, but a decided weakness in executing them. This suggestion seemed a practical way out and it is hoped it may be worked out if by no better manner than by repetition of such town meetings, although it was shown that the plan could be simplified.

SPECIAL GRAND JURY MAKES A RECORD

THE special grand jury which convened at Brainerd for a one-day session made a record in its deliberations, returning 63 indictments involving 41 persons.

All the indictments returned covered alleged violations of the liquor laws and have been followed by arraignments. Had these various cases toiled their way slowly through municipal court and thence to the district court, they would have involved a large expense on the part of the county.

THE Minnesota Power & Light company has announced the close of their two million dollar sale of preferred stock, the subscriptions received more than totalling that amount. THE address of President Reed of the Minnesota Farm Bureau given at Brainerd has received wide publicity and much comment. Farm papers throughout Minnesota have also given the speech mention.

nearly one-fifth of the annual production.

"Unless all past experience is to be disregarded, notwithstanding its present embarrassments, agriculture as a whole should lead industry in future prosperity," Mr. Coolidge concluded.

"There have been discussions which seem to indicate so far that our agriculture is becoming decadent and that it has already reached its highest point, and that, becoming unprofitable, it is likely to diminish. Nothing in the appearance of the country or of its people as I have travelled over it has seemed to indicate any deterioration, nor do I find anything in the farm census and reports that warrants this conclusion."

Speaking of the future of agriculture, the president said:

"The expansion of our country down to almost as late as 1880 was an agricultural expansion. A large majority of our inhabitants were engaged in that occupation. They not only tilled the soil, but they owned it. They not only directed the government but they made it. The fertile lands and generous homestead laws under American institutions all worked together to produce an entirely new position of place and power of agriculture. When there was added to this the marvelous inventions of farm machinery which have come into modern life, it made it possible to establish here the first agricultural empire which did not rest upon an oppressed peasantry. This was a stupendous achievement."

"Following this came the vast business growth which brought great changes. The town and industrial population for the first time began to exceed that of the farms. From the surplus of food products requiring foreign markets we began to reach something like a balance between domestic production and consumption. Before 1910, so wise a man as James J. Hill expressed the opinion that in the near future we should be importers of wheat."

"Under normal conditions, Mr. Hill might have been correct, but the world war intervened. The enormous demand from abroad brought the high prices which so stimulated production that it reached a new record in amount and value. Without this service, famine undoubtedly would have prevailed over wide areas."

"This resulted in a great inflation and in an overproduction, reaching its summit in 1919, which was followed by a sharp decline."

lowed by the inevitable deflation of 1920 and 1921. The best economic authority tells us this was inevitable. Whether it was or not, it came. It afflicted both agriculture and industry. The values of manufacturing plants and their stocks on hand went down, their orders were cancelled, their operations ceased, and the buying capacity of their wage earners being greatly reduced, the consumption of food products declined, causing a fall in prices that reached back to the farm. The resulting losses have never been fully recovered either in industry or agriculture but starting from the low point of 1920 and 1921 both have made progress and from every indication appear to be entering an era of prosperity."

Long and prolonged cheering interrupted the president when he pledged support of the co-operative marketing movement.

"I propose actively and energetically to assist the farmers to promote their welfare through co-operative marketing," Mr. Coolidge said, and immediately the audience was on its feet, cheering and stamping its feet. The president concluded his speech at 12:05 and was escorted to luncheon by Bradfute. "A co-operative luncheon" was served, all of the food coming from farmers' co-operative organizations. Mr. Coolidge was served a portion of "prize beef" from the recent International Livestock exposition. The meat sold at $7 a pound.

"It's Not
Far to the Next
Red Crown Station"

How often have you heard your friends say, "It's not far to a Red Crown station" when something went wrong or when the gas supply was running low.

To the motoring public, and that includes nearly all of us, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service station is more than a convenience. It has become an essential and indispensable institution, upon which the public has come to depend.

It would be as inconvenient today to live in a world without grocery stores, as without these service stations.

Scattered at carefully selected points throughout the Middle West are 3500 of these stations, owned and operated by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

They are clean, comfortable, convenient. There you may be sure of getting the gasoline and oil you need, at the lowest market price. There you will find ready for your use, free air for your tires, free water for your radiator, free counsel in case of trouble, and a willing, cheerful attendant to serve you. There you will find ample toilet facilities and in most cases a telephone and other conveniences.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) chain of service stations has been a development of the past few years. They came into being first in answer to an unformulated demand on the part of touring motorists, and they have been continued and multiplied because our patrons demand the type of service we have established.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service stations do much more than sell oil products—they are convenient points of meeting and first-aid centers in time of difficulty.

These stations and the service they render, typify the ideals animating the Management of this Company in its relations with the consumer. Efficient service, cheerfully rendered, is the foundation of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) success. To give its customers a little more than they pay for, is the undeviating policy of this organization, and this policy is recognized throughout the ten states where this Company has facilities for distribution.

Through a long chain of operations from the oil field to the service station, this Company devotes all its abilities and resources to the service of the thirty million people of the Middle West.

Loud and prolonged cheering interrupted the president when he pledged support of the co-operative marketing movement.

"I propose actively and energetically to assist the farmers to promote their welfare through co-operative marketing," Mr. Coolidge said, and immediately the audience was on its feet, cheering and stamping its feet.

The president concluded his speech at 12:05 and was escorted to luncheon by Bradfute. "A co-operative luncheon" was served, all of the food coming from farmers' co-operative organizations. Mr. Coolidge was served a portion of "prize beef" from the recent International Livestock exposition. The meat sold at $7 a pound.

"It's Not Far to the Next Red Crown Station"

How often have you heard your friends say, "It's not far to a Red Crown station" when something went wrong or when the gas supply was running low.

To the motoring public, and that includes nearly all of us, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service station is more than a convenience. It has become an essential and indispensable institution, upon which the public has come to depend.

It would be as inconvenient today to live in a world without grocery stores, as without these service stations.

Scattered at carefully selected points throughout the Middle West are 3500 of these stations, owned and operated by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

They are clean, comfortable, convenient. There you may be sure of getting the gasoline and oil you need, at the lowest market price. There you will find ready for your use, free air for your tires, free water for your radiator, free counsel in case of trouble, and a willing, cheerful attendant to serve you. There you will find ample toilet facilities and in most cases a telephone and other conveniences.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) chain of service stations has been a development of the past few years. They came into being first in answer to an unformulated demand on the part of touring motorists, and they have been continued and multiplied because our patrons demand the type of service we have established.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service stations do much more than sell oil products—they are convenient points of meeting and first-aid centers in time of difficulty.

These stations and the service they render, typify the ideals animating the Management of this Company in its relations with the consumer. Efficient service, cheerfully rendered, is the foundation of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) success. To give its customers a little more than they pay for, is the undeviating policy of this organization, and this policy is recognized throughout the ten states where this Company has facilities for distribution.

Through a long chain of operations from the oil field to the service station, this Company devotes all its abilities and resources to the service of the thirty million people of the Middle West.

Take in One of the Finest Classes in the History of Local Organization

CHARTER OPEN TO DEC. 11

Speakers of the Evening Were H. A. Swanson, Robert W. Crust, J. F. Elkins

Last Friday night Brainerd Lodge No. 1246 of the Loyal Order of Moose held one of the largest initiations and get-together meetings it has ever had, and took in a class of the finest men in the history of the local organization.

The local organization has received a special dispensation from Director General James J. Davis, secretary of labor to have its charter open under the $10 initiation fee until next Friday, December 11th. This announcement was received by cheers from the members present, as many of their friends would like to join, but were unable to be present Friday night and this will give them another week to make application for membership in the organization under open charter fees. The closed charter fee is $50 and a life membership is $250, life members being entitled to all benefits of the order without further payments.

The principal speakers of the evening were Attorney H. A. Swanson, Robert W. Crust and J. F. Elkins. Mr. Swanson spoke on Mooseheart and the wonderful work the Moose are doing there. The members present were highly impressed with his speech and the thorough manner in which he emphasized the good work carried on by the organization.

Mr. Crust said he did not know very much about the order prior to becoming a member, but having learned its advantages, he is a Moose through and through. He received much applause as the members realize what an asset Mr. Crust is to the order.

J. F. Elkins, who is acting dictator spoke on the good of the order, bringing out the many good points, including Mooseheart and Moosehaven Extension service. Mr. Elkins is very familiar with the work of the lodge and its many new features. He told the boys to go out and tell the people of Brainerd what the Loyal Order of Moose is and what it does for its members.

Following the initiatory ceremony, a basket social and dance were held and a good time was had by all.

Mr. Van Iten will remain here another week to supervise the membership drive, and predicts the lodge will gain its goal of 700 members in the coming week. The total membership is now over 300.

SUPREME COURT DENIES REVIEW OF ALIEN PROPERTY SUIT

Washington, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The U. S. supreme court denied review of a suit to the disposition of property belonging to United States citizens placed with American trust companies by German trust companies, before the war and later seized by the alien property custodian.

The suit which is one of several similar ones pending involving millions of dollars, was brought by the Farmers Loan and Trust Co., New York City, to recover seized property for its creditors and policy holders. The company lost in lower courts.

Unkind

One day, at the table of the late Mr. Pease (dean of Ely), just as the cloth was being removed, the subject of discourse happened to be that of an extraordinary mortality amongst lawyers. "We have lost," said a gentleman, "not less than six eminent barristers in as many months." The dean, who was quite deaf, rose as his friend finished his remarks, and gave the company grace: "For this and every other mercy, the Lord's holy name be praised."—London Answer.

GENERAL MEETING OF WOMEN VOTERS

"The Symposium of Women in Public Office"—Mrs. Annie Patek.

"A Clever Money-Raising Stunt"—Mrs. E. O. Webb.

Conclusions from Professor Quigley's course in "American Participation in International Organizations" Genevieve Flanagan.

Horrors of Next War Almost Beyond Belief

"The war of the future," says General Nollet of the French general staff, "the war of the future will be 100 per cent efficient." Just what this means may be gathered from a glance at the mechanical perfection of the death-dealing instruments that would be utilized in the event of such an awful holocaust, is the reflection of Pierre Van Passen, writing in the Atlanta Constitution. For instead of liquid fire we have now Lewisite gas, which is invisible, sinks and would search out every dugout and cellar, while it also attacks the skin and almost always kills, having a spread fifty times greater than that of any other poison gas. A dozen of these Lewisite air bombs, will practically eliminate the population of such cities as Berlin or Paris. The planes carrying these missiles will be directed by wireless, so that the airplane becomes the super gun. A great metropolis teeming with life one evening will be a huge graveyard at break of day. Formal declarations of war will become obsolete, witness the outbreak between Greece and Bulgaria. There will be no warning. Tanks will be used like super-dreadnoughts, for this is the verdict reached at the recent British army maneuvers. They will crush whole villages in their crawling annihilation. Poison gases will even destroy the productivity of the soil for many years to come, as was the case in some instances in France during the last conflict. The contemplation of the horrors and the chaos in life that must inevitably follow such a cataclysm would overshadow any disaster the world has ever witnessed, including the black plague of the Middle Ages, or even the flood of Noah's days. The very terror and unparalleled ruthlessness of such a war may well prove the strongest weapon ever devised against war. For it would mean the suicide of the human race.

Spilled Wine Brings Luck

An American senator traveling in the Balkans was invited to dine with one of the ruling monarchs. The American being of a somewhat nervous temperament it is easy to imagine his dismay when, as toasts were proposed, his champagne glass slipped from his hand and the contents were spilled over the tablecloth. His royal host, however, was more than equal to the occasion. He immediately touched the spot on the tablecloth with his fingers, rubbed some of the spilled wine on the back of his ear and exclaimed, "You have brought good luck on my house." As a matter of fact, however, the king was prompted by an old superstition. It is a well-known Slav saying that if wine is spilled by a guest, good luck will attend the house.

Does Your Loud Speaker Say "Ess" or "Eth"

The usual garbling of sound by loud speakers is overcome by the new Grebe "Colortone"

THE sounds that come from the Synchronphase are independent of loud speaker control. The proper adaptation of speaker to set is no longer necessary for satisfactory reception.

By means of the Grebe "Colortone" you can vary, to your taste, the quality or timbre of voice or music from high, thin pitch to low, deep, round tones. You can also bring out low tones that would otherwise be inaudible, and eliminate, to a great degree, hissing sounds and the usual form of scratchy static—"S" sounds like "S" and "H" like "H". In the Synchronphase, artificiality of sound—the bane of radio reception—gives place to true, natural tones.

Add to this Grebe development, other exclusive Grebe features, and you get in the Synchronphase, radio reception unapproached in quality. Consider, for example:

The "Selective Sensitivity" conferred by Grebe Binocular Coils.

One-dial operation. Because of the Flexible Unit Control, one dial operates two or all three dials (they can also be set separately).

Ease in accurate tuning by means of Grebe S-L-F Condensers on whose dials all stations have equal spacing.

GRANGE EARNINGS IN FIVE GAMES $82,000

MAY REALIZE $200,000 AT END OF SEASON

FIRST SEASON AS PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL PLAYER IS LUCRATIVE ONE

RED GAVE A TALK OVER RADIO, STRESSING VALUE OF SELF CONFIDENCE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Dec. 7.—With total earnings of $82,000 for five games played in eleven days, "Red" Grange is almost certain to realize about $200,000 for his first season as a professional football player.

The red haired star of the Chicago Bears got $30,000 as his share of the receipts when 70,000 spectators jammed into the Polo Grounds yesterday to see his team beat the New York Giants, 19 to 7. This sum, no doubt, will not be equalled in any other games this season, but the returns will be substantial from the games that he is to play in Washington, Boston, Detroit and Chicago this week and the games that he is to play in Florida.

Last night over the radio Grange, in stressing the value of self confidence, said he had never gone into a game without the firm belief that he would get away once.

He had to wait until the final period yesterday to get away but he did it when he grabbed a forward pass thrown by Hinkley Haines, the New York star and dashed 35 yards for a touchdown.

He played in only three quarters of the game. He gained 53 yards on 11 plays from scrimmage; threw two completed forward passes out of three attempts for a gain of 22 yards; caught one pass for a gain of 23 yards; ran back two kicks for 13 yards and finished with a run of 35 yards for a touchdown on an intercepted pass.

His running against the Giants, in terms of dollars, was worth about $230 a yard and his time pay valued at about $7,500 a minute. Thus far, in his professional career, he has averaged $15,000 a game and the revenue for the use of his name for other purposes cannot be computed. Figuring on the returns that Jack Dempsey and Babe Ruth received for the use of their names, it is quite possible he will realize at least $50,000.

4 TEAMS TO PLAY EACH OTHER TWICE IN THE SAME SEASON

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(UP)—For the first time since 1892 Big Ten conference football will see four teams play each other twice in the same season. Michigan and Minnesota and Northwestern and Indiana will engage in two games next fall.

The coaches and other athletic officials who attended the Big Ten meeting Saturday pointed to the precedent of 1892 when Michigan played Cornell two games in the same season. In that same year Northwestern and Chicago also played two games.

Coaches found it extremely difficult to prepare acceptable schedules because of the new ruling calling for each Big Ten team to play at least four conference games a season.

Coach Spears of Minnesota, unable to secure the teams he wanted, finally asked Coach Yost of Michigan for two games and the latter acquiesced. Northwestern, dropped from the Michigan schedule, then hooked up with Indiana for a home and home schedule.

PROF. LEAGUE HOCKEY GAMES

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Both professional league hockey games played here Sunday resulted in tie scores. Pullman and Coal City fought to a scoreless tie.

The Buda team and Corliss and Sparta team tied 4-4. In an exhibition contest the Bricklayers won from the Canadians 3-1. Other exhibitions resulted as follows:

Ulster United 1, Sparta 2nd 1.
Roosevelt A. C. 2, Olympia 2nd 0.
Sunflower 3, Good Samaritan 1.

Earliest U. S. Industry

The first industrial enterprise in the United States was a glass bottle factory erected in the Virginia colony soon after 1607. The works were about one mile from Jamestown. The second glass house was erected in 1622 for the manufacture of glass beads for trading with the Indians.

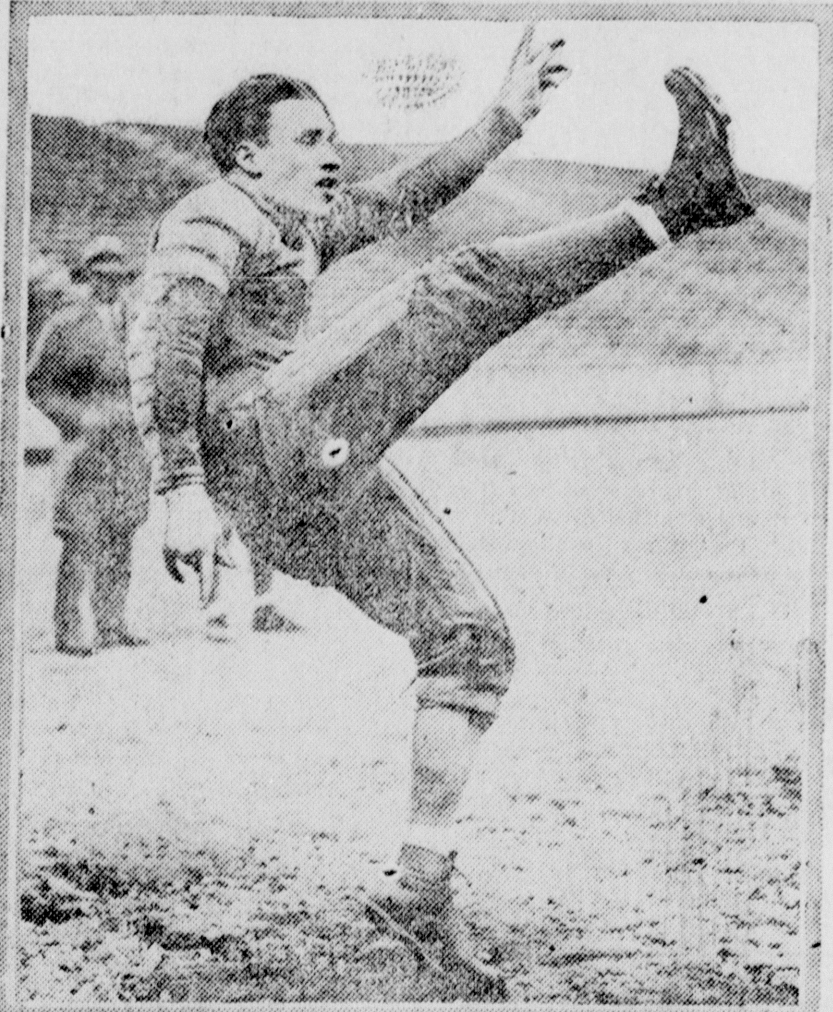

Memory May Be Poor

I have observed that my recollections of old times are not reliable, and I do not have much faith in the recollections of other old-timers. Much they say they experienced is a vague story they have heard others tell. And old people are not very truthful, anyway.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Advantage of Honesty

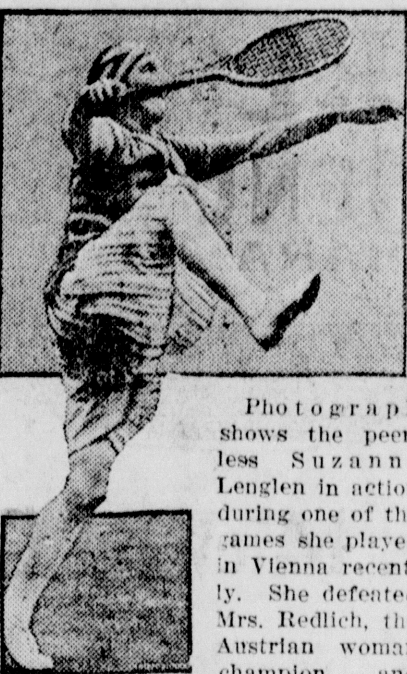

"An honest man has a better memory than a liar," said a "memory marvel," who recently demonstrated in London. In two days he learned 2,000 English words.

Got Needed Experience

Connie Mack, basing his pennant hopes upon a team of recruits, unused to the grueling of a long hard season, fell by the wayside only about a month before the close of the season. Although the team broke at the crucial moment this year, many fans will say that the Athletics should be the pennant winners of 1926. All the team needed was experience and it got plenty of it in the campaign just finished. The Athletics won and lost in spurts, which is not the characteristic of a champion team.

HORNSBY, MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 7.—It came as no great surprise that Rogers Hornsby, the brilliant manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, was named as the winner of the National league's $1,000 prize as the most valuable player in the league.

It would have been a surprise if Hornsby had not been elected by the committee of eight baseball writers as he was beyond doubt the outstanding player of the season, not only as an individual star but as a team player.

There was some surprise, however, in that he scored only three first place votes and his other points on two seconds and two thirds. Cuyler, the brilliant young Pittsburgh outfielder, polled two firsts and George Kelly, Glenn Wright and Dave Bancroft secured one each.

The vote, as announced by James Gould, president of the Baseball Writers' association, was:

Hornsby.....	73
Cuyler.....	61
Kelly.....	52
Wright.....	43
Vance.....	42
Bancroft.....	41
Bottomley.....	28
Traynor.....	27
Frish.....	12
Roush.....	12

It will be observed that the world's champion Pittsburgh Pirates have three players, Cuyler, Wright and Traynor in the first ten and Max Carey polled eleven votes; the St. Louis Cardinals have two in Hornsby and Bottomley and the Giants have a pair in Frisch and Kelly.

Some of the ranking under Hornsby was surprising. Many critics thought that George Kelly, the all-around star of the Giants, was the closest rival that Hornsby would have but Cuyler was second with nine votes majority.

Cuyler perhaps profited by the notice obtained from playing with a championship team and in starring in the world's series. Kelly, who kept the Giants from falling clear out of the pennant race, possible sacrificed attention by playing on a losing team.

Hornsby also benefitted some by prominence. He didn't play so much better than he did through the previous season but he drew a lot of notice by managing a team up into the first division.

It was unusual also to see Frank Frisch, the Giant captain, and Eddie Roush, the Cincinnati outfielder, tied for ninth place. Neither was on his game last year, however.

It looks very much like Frish has reached the height of his game and for one of his years it is a disappointment.

It was a tribute to a great player when Dazzy Vance, winner of the 1924 prize, was voted fourth place, just one vote behind Wright and it was just as much of an honor for Wright to land so high among the elect in his second season in fast company.

With the exception of second and third places, there hardly can be any argument about the selections. Cuyler rooters will not admit that Kelly is a more valuable player than he is and you can't convince Kelly fans that he is not deserving of second place. Words would be wasted in argument because it's all a matter of opinion.

The committee this year went a step farther in recognizing an honor list of players who didn't get enough votes to rank in the first ten.

Those on the honor list were: Carey, 11; Meusel, 6; Laque, 5; Grimm, 5; Wheat, 4; Donohue, 4; Hargrave, 4; Harper, 3; Sand, 3; Gautreau, 2; Aldridge, 1.

Considering the votes cast it would seem that an All-Star National league team would consist of:

Catchers—Hargraves, Cincinnati, and Wilson, Philadelphia.
First Base—Kelly, New York.
Second Base—Hornsby, St. Louis.
Shortstop—Wright, Pittsburgh.
Third Base—Traynor, Pittsburgh.
Rightfield—Cuyler, Pittsburgh.
Centerfield—Roush, Cincinnati.
Leftfield—Meusel, New York.
Max Carey received one more vote than Meusel but Meusel was the ranking left fielder on the list.

Other players than those who actually received votes were placed on the honor list, after considering their ability, character, spirit, dependability and ability.

They were: Rixey, Meadows, Fournier, Blades, Sherdell, Hartnett, Critz, Cooney, McInnis, Grantham, Bell, Gooch, Adams, Young, Wheat, Benton, Carlton, Wilson, Stock, Barnhart, Pinelli, Brassler and Welch.

GRANGE EARNINGS IN FIVE GAMES $82,000

MAY REALIZE $200,000 AT END OF SEASON

FIRST SEASON AS PROFESSIONAL
FOOTBALL PLAYER IS
LUCRATIVE ONE

RED GAVE A TALK OVER RADIO,
STRESSING VALUE OF SELF
CONFIDENCE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Dec. 7.—With total earnings of $82,000 for five games played in eleven days, "Red" Grange is almost certain to realize about $200,000 for his first season as a professional football player.

The red haired star of the Chicago Bears got $30,000 as his share of the receipts when 70,000 spectators jammed into the Polo Grounds yesterday to see his team beat the New York Giants, 19 to 7. This sum, no doubt, will not be equalled in any other games this season, but the returns will be substantial from the games that he is to play in Washington, Boston, Detroit and Chicago this week and the games that he is to play in Florida.

Last night over the radio Grange, in stressing the value of self confidence, said he had never gone into a game without the firm belief that he would get away once.

He had to wait until the final period yesterday to get away but he did it when he grabbed a forward pass thrown by Hinkley Haines, the New York star and dashed 35 yards for a touchdown.

He played in only three quarters of the game. He gained 53 yards on 11 plays from scrimmage; threw two completed forward passes out of three attempts for a gain of 23 yards; caught one pass for a gain of 23 yards; ran back two kicks for 13 yards and finished with a run of 25 yards for a touchdown on an intercepted pass.

His running against the Giants, in terms of dollars, was worth about $230 a yard and his time pay valued at about $7,500 a minute. Thus far, in his professional career, he has averaged $15,000 a game and the revenue for the use of his name for other purposes cannot be computed. Figuring on the returns that Jack Dempsey and Babe Ruth received for the use of their names, it is quite probable he will realize at least $50,000.

4 TEAMS TO PLAY EACH OTHER TWICE IN THE SAME SEASON

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(UP)—For the first time since 1892 Big Ten conference football will see four teams play each other twice in the same season. Michigan and Minnesota and Northwestern and Indiana will engage in two games next fall.

The coaches and other athletic officials who attended the Big Ten meeting Saturday pointed to the precedent of 1892 when Michigan played Cornell two games in the same season. In that same year Northwestern and Chicago also played two games.

Coaches found it extremely difficult to prepare acceptable schedules because of the new ruling calling for each Big Ten team to play at least four conference games a season.

Coach Spears of Minnesota, unable to secure the teams he wanted, finally asked Coach Yost of Michigan for two games and the latter acquiesced. Northwestern, dropped from the Michigan schedule, then hooked up with Indiana for a home and home schedule.

PROF. LEAGUE HOCKEY GAMES

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Both professional league hockey games played here Sunday resulted in tie scores. Pullman and Coal City fought to a scoreless tie.

The Buda team and Corliss and Sparks team tied 4-4.

In an exhibition contest the Bricklayers won from the Canadians 3-1.

Other exhibitions resulted as follows:

Ulster United 1, Sparta 2nd 1.
Roosevelt A. C. 2, Olympia 2nd 0.
Sunflower 3, Good Samaritan 1.

LINCOLN SCHOOL'S GREAT CARNIVAL

Every Room Packed Full, Parent-Teachers Sponsoring the Function

MAIN CONCERT IS PLEASING

Lincoln Minstrels Played to Big Shows And Were Even Better Than Last Year

Every room in the Lincoln school was packed Saturday night for the carnival held by the Parent-Teachers association and everyone seemed to be having lots of fun.

The main concert had an excellent program which opened with two orchestra selections by the boys' orchestra with little Gladys Johnson, first violin. There were two cornet solos by Donald Marchal and Dale Sanders and a trombone solo by Howard Giles, with Mrs. Norman F. Ziebell at the piano. Gladys and Leonard Johnson gave a violin duet accompanied by Miss Jessie Evans. Arthur Schwendeman accompanying himself on the ukelele sang a solo and Gladys Johnson gave a violin selection with Miss Jesse Evans at the piano. Helen Paine gave a reading in her usual good form and the concert concluded with an Indian dance by three real redskins.

The Lincoln Minstrels were a scream and even better than last year. Standing room was at a premium. The company was composed of Esther Bentley and Lois Hall, as the "Gold Dust Twins," Bill Stearns as "Tennessee," Miss Mayme Sealion as "Phoebe Snow," Gilbert Sabin, Mrs. Roy Hall, J. Avery, and son Lee Avery, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Frayer, Rowland Jenkins Rowland Jenkins, Jr., Earl Bedal as "Sambo" and Mrs. Earl Bedal as "Liza."

They sang "Lindy Lou," "Somebody's Done Me Wrong," "Liza," "Jing-a-boo Man," "You'll Miss Your Honey," "Collegiate" and "Bam Bam Bam Shore."

They were very entertaining with their new songs and dances and jokes. They had their own orchestra. The instrumentation included J. Avery, banjo; Mrs. Edward Frayer, and Esther Bentley, pianists; Rowland Jenkins, Jr., saxophone; Lee Avery, trombone; Gilbert Sabin, cornet.

The hat shoppe was in charge of Mrs. John McDonald and there were little hats, big hats and paper hats and straw hats.

Mrs. Carl Bentley, assisted by Mrs. M. L. Cunningham and Misses Iva and Myia Trask had charge of the Beauty Shoppe and they had a very practicable patronage.

Dr. H. E. McGinn and William C. Ceane had the difficult task of guessing weights. If they didn't come within five pounds of the correct weight, they forfeited a nice, big pop corn ball.

Incense burners and a comfy looking corner was that greeted you in the "Men's Smoker" in charge of Mrs. J. C. Glynna and Mrs. C. G. Miller.

Pink and white crepe paper decorated a very pretty candy booth presided over by Mrs. C. H. Varner as chairman.

The fish pond and grab bag was in charge of Mrs. George Lucas as chairman where everyone might take their gambler's chance.

And then there was the ever popular lunch room in charge of Mrs. Charles Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Gilmore, Mrs. Mattie Peterson, and Mrs. Anna McQuillen where they made a specialty of Swift's Premium baked ham sandwiches.

The Lincoln P. T. A. sincerely thank the public for their patronage, all those who so kindly contributed, and the faithful workers who helped make the school carnival a success; and the Brainerd merchants who so liberally contributed to the fish pond.

The sale netted the association about $250 and this will be used to purchase playground equipment, books, pictures, etc., for the school.

WOMAN DENIED PERMIT FOR BUS

The Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission Saturday granted to the Bemidji-Brainerd bus line a permit of convenience, and necessity, and in a second order denied the application of the Lockore Bus line, which operates parallel routes.

The two companies were recently absorbed by the Northland Transportation Co., which some time ago was granted a permit to operate lines in northern Minnesota.

Under the order of the commission the Bemidji-Brainerd bus line will operate through Cass Lake, Benedict, Walker, Hackensack, Backus, Mildred, Pine River, Jenkins, Pequot, Niswaga and Brainerd.

The commission stated that this service was needed in addition to the railroad service now given that community. However, it found that the service of the Lockore Bus line was not needed and as a result denied a certificate of operation.

As he walked back down-town Pierce pondered Roulette's words, "a square deal all around, even to yourself." They were a trifle puzzling. Whom had he cheated? Surely not Laure. From the very first he had protested his lack of serious interest in her, and their subsequent relations were entirely the result of her unceasing efforts to appropriate him to herself. He had resisted, she had persisted. Nor could he see that he had cheated—in other words, injured—himself. This was a liberal country; its code was free and it took little account of a man's private conduct. Nobody seriously blamed him for his affair with Laure; he had lost no standing by reason of it. It was only a part of the big adventure, a passing phase of his development, an experience such as came to every man. Since it had left no mark upon him, and had not seriously affected Laure, the score was even. He dismissed Roulette's words as of little consequence. In order, however, to prevent any further unpleasant scenes he determined to put Laure in her place, once for all.

Roulette went to her room, vaguely disturbed at her own emotions. She could still feel the touch of Phillips' hand, she could still feel his gaze fixed earnestly, meditatively, upon hers, and she was amazed to discover the importance he had assumed in her thoughts. Importance, that was the word. He was a very real, a very interesting person, and there was some inexplicable attraction about him that offset his faults and his failings, however grave. For one thing, he was not an automaton, like the other men; he was a living, breathing problem, and he absorbed Roulette's attention.

She was sitting on the edge of her bed, staring at the wall, when the Countess Courteau knocked at her door and entered. The women had become good friends; frequently the elder one stopped to gossip. The Countess flung herself into a chair, rolled and lit a cigarette, then said: "Well, I see you and Agnes saved the bankroll again."

Roulette nodded. "Agnes is an awful bluff. I never load her. But of course nobody knows that."

"You're a queer youngster. I've never known a girl quite like you. Everybody is talking about you."

"Indeed? Not the nice people?" "Nice people?" The Countess lifted her brows. "You mean those at the barracks and up on the hill? Yes, they're talking about you, too."

"I can imagine what they say," Roulette drew her brows together in a frown. "No doubt they think I'm just like the dance-hall girls. I've seen a few of them—at a distance. They avoid me as if I had measles."

"Naturally. Do you care?" "Certainly I care. I'd like to be one of them, not a specimen. Wouldn't you?"

"Um-m, perhaps. I dare say I could be one of them if it weren't for Courteau. People forget things quickly in a new country."

"Why did you take him back? I'm sure you don't care for him."

"Not in the least. He's the sort of man you can't love or hate; he's a nine-spot. Just the same, he protects me and—I can't help being sorry for him."

Roulette smiled. "Fancy you needing protection and him giving—" "You don't understand. I protect me from myself. I mean it. I'm as unruly as the average woman and I make a fool of myself on the slightest provocation. Henri is a loafer, a good-for-nothing, to be sure, but, nevertheless, I have resumed his support. It was easier than refusing it. I help broken miners. I feed hungry dogs. Why shouldn't I clothe and feed a helpless husband? It's a perfectly feminine, illogical thing to do."

"Other people don't share your opinion of him. He can be very agreeable, very charming, when he tries."

"Of course. That's his stock in trade; that's his excuse for being. Women are crazy about him, as you probably know, but—give me a man the men like." There was a pause. "So you don't like the thing you're doing?"

"I hate it! I hate the whole atmosphere—the whole underworld. It's—unhealthy, stifling."

"What has happened?" "Slowly, hesitatingly, Roulette told of her encounter with Laure. The Countess listened silently.

"It was an unpleasant shock," the girl concluded, "for it brought me back to my surroundings. It lifted the curtain and showed me what's really going on. It's a pity Pierce Phillips is entangled with that creature, for he's a nice chap and he's got it in him to do big things. But it wasn't much use my trying to tell him that he was cheating himself. I don't think he understood. I feel almost—well, motherly toward him."

Hilda nodded gravely. "Of course you do. He has it."

"Has it? What?"

"The call—the appeal—the same thing that lets Henri get by."

"Oh, he's nothing like the Count!" Roulette protested, quickly.

The elder woman did not argue the point. "Pierce has more character than Henri, but a man can lose even that in a gambling-house. I was very fond of him—fonder than I knew. Yes, it's a fact, I'm jealous of Laure, jealous of you."

"Jealous? Of me? You're joking!" "Of course. Don't take me seriously. Nevertheless, I mean it."

The Countess smiled queerly and rose to her feet. "It's improper for a married woman to joke about such things, even a woman married to a no-good count, isn't it? And it's foolish, too. Well, I'm going to do something even more foolish—I'm going to give you some advice. Cut out that young man. He hasn't found himself yet; he's running wild. He's light in ballast and he's rulerless. If he straightens out he'll make some woman very happy; otherwise—he'll create a good deal of havoc. Believe me, I know what I'm talking about, for I collided with Henri and—look at the result!"

BEBE DANIELS & HARRISON FORD IN THE PARAMOUNT PICTURE "LOVERS IN QUARANTINE"

Latest at Lyceum Bebe Daniels and Harrison Ford—there's a combination which should tickle the comedy-loving public's palate.

These two laugh-makers play opposite each other in Bebe's latest Paramount starring picture, "Lovers in Quarantine," coming to the Lyceum theatre for two days' run on Tuesday.

Frank Tuttle, who made "Miss Bluebeard" and "The Lucky Devil" directed the production.

"The Trouble With Wives" True-to-Life Paramount Film

There's a sure cure for the trouble with wives and husbands, too, at the Lyceum theatre tonight in the Paramount picture, "The Trouble With Wives," featuring Florence Vidor, Tom Moore, Esther Ralston and Ford Sterling.

The story, written especially for the screen by Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin, is a comedy of newly married life. As the wife, Grace Hyatt, Florence Vidor wants only to be alone with her husband, to sit before the fire with him and memorize the days of their courtship.

Varities in Sabers

The Italian sabre was introduced into England in 1800. It was already popular in other European countries. Both edge and point are sharp in continental countries of Europe, but not in Great Britain—the back edge is sharpened only for some eight inches from the point.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Dec. 7.—Stocks made further progress on the side of advancing prices at the start of the new week notwithstanding a rise in call money to 5 1/2 per cent. This stiffening was due to preparations for tax payments and government financing due the middle of the month. Consequently it was ignored by bullish interests whose buying operations went ahead with considerable aggressiveness in many sections of the list.

Railroad shares were favored owing to the optimism felt over the outlook for early action on the more important consolidations now that congress has convened. New highs on the current advances were reached by Atlantic Coast Line, Louisville and Nashville, Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania and other representative issues. Price movements in the industrial list were less uniform, owing to spurts of selling in Industrial Alcohol, American Can and other special issues. However, this class of stocks maintained a fairly buoyant tone and substantial advances occurred in numerous stocks particularly in the oils and motors.

The market closed higher.

As he walked back down-town Pierce pondered Rouletta's words, "a square deal all around, even to yourself." They were a trifle puzzling. Whom had he cheated. Surely not Laure. From the very first he had protested his lack of serious interest in her, and their subsequent relations were entirely the result of her unceasing efforts to appropriate him to herself. He had resisted, she had persisted. Nor could he see that he had cheated—in other words, injured—himself. This was a liberal country; its code was free and it took little account of a man's private conduct. Nobody seriously blamed him for his affair with Laure; he had lost no standing by reason of it. It was only a part of the big adventure, a passing phase of his development, an experience such as came to every man. Since it had left no mark upon him, and had not seriously affected Laure, the score was even. He dismissed Rouletta's words as of little consequence. In order, however, to prevent any further unpleasant scenes he determined to put Laure in her place, once for all.

Rouletta went to her room, vaguely disturbed at her own emotions. She could still feel the touch of Phillips' hand, she could still feel his gaze fixed earnestly, meditatively, upon hers, and she was amazed to discover the importance he had assumed in her thoughts. Importance, that was the word. He was a very real, a very interesting person, and there was some inexplicable attraction about him that offset his faults and his failings, however grave. For one thing, he was not an automaton, like the other men; he was a living, breathing problem, and he absorbed Rouletta's attention.

She was sitting on the edge of her bed, staring at the wall, when the Countess Courteau knocked at her door and entered. The women had become good friends; frequently the elder one stopped to gossip. The Countess flung herself into a chair, rolled off a cigarette, then said: "Well, I see you and Agnes saved the bankroll again."

Rouletta nodded. "Agnes is an awful bluff. I never load her. But of course nobody knows that."

"You're a queer youngster. I've never known a girl quite like you. Everybody is talking about you."

"Indeed? Not the nice people?"

"Nice people?" The Countess lifted her brows. "You mean those at the Barracks and up on the hill? Yes, they're talking about you, too."

Rouletta drew her brows together in a frown. "No doubt they think I'm just like the dance-hall girls. I've seen a few of them at a distance. They avoid me as if I had measles."

"Naturally. Do you care?"

"Certainly I care. I'd like to be one of them, not a specimen. Wouldn't you?"

"Um-h, perhaps. I dare say I could be one of them if it weren't for Courteau. People forget things quickly in a new country."

"Why did you take him back? I'm sure you don't care for him."

"Not in the least. He's the sort of man you can't love or hate; he's a nine-spot. Just the same, he protects me and—I can't help being sorry for him."

Rouletta smiled. "Fancy you needing protection and him giving—"

"You don't understand. He protects me from myself. I mean it. I'm as unruly as the average woman and I make a fool of myself on the slightest provocation. Henri is a loafer, a good-for-nothing, to be sure, but, nevertheless, I have resumed his support. It was easier than refusing it. I help broken miners. I feed hungry dogs. Why shouldn't I clothe and feed a helpless husband? It's a perfectly feminine, illogical thing to do."

"Other people don't share your opinion of him. He can be very agreeable, very charming, when he tries."

"Of course. That's his stock in trade; that's his excuse for being. Women are crazy about him, as you probably know, but—give me a man the men like." There was a pause. "So you don't like the thing you're doing?"

"I hate it! I hate the whole atmosphere—the whole underworld. It's unhealthy, stifling."

"What has happened?"

Slowly, hesitatingly, Rouletta told of her encounter with Laure. The Countess listened silently.

"It was an unpleasant shock," the girl concluded, "for it brought me back to my surroundings. It lifted the curtain and showed me what's really going on. It's a pity Pierce Phillips is entangled with that creature, for he's a nice chap and he's got it in him to do big things. But it wasn't much use my trying to tell him that he was cheating himself. I don't think he understood. I feel almost—well, motherly toward him."

Hilda nodded gravely. "Of course you do. He has it."

"Has it? What?"

"The call—the appeal—the same thing that lets Henri get by."

"Oh, he's nothing like the Count!" Rouletta protested, quickly.

The elder woman did not argue the point. "Pierce has more character than Henri, but a man can lose even that in a gambling-house."

She was fond of him—fonder than I knew. Yes, it's a fact. I'm jealous of Laure, jealous of you—"

"Jealous? Of me? You're joking!"

"Of course. Don't take me seriously. Nevertheless, I mean it."

The Countess smiled queerly and rose to her feet. "It's improper for a married woman to joke about such things, even a woman married to a no-good count, isn't it? And it's foolish, too. Well, I'm going to do something even more foolish—I'm going to give you some advice. Cut out that young man. He hasn't found himself yet; he's running wild. He's light in ballast and he's rudderless. If he straightens out he'll make some woman very happy; otherwise—he'll create a good deal of havoc. Believe me, I know what I'm talking about, for I collided with Henri and—look at the result!"

BEBE DANIELS & HARRISON FORD IN THE PARAMOUNT PICTURE "LOVERS IN QUARANTINE"

"Lovers in Quarantine" Bebe Daniels' Latest at Lyceum

Bebe Daniels and Harrison Ford—there's a combination which should tickle the comedy-loving public's palate.

These two laugh-makers play opposite each other in Bebe's latest Paramount starring picture, "Lovers in Quarantine," coming to the Lyceum theatre for two days' run on Tuesday.

Frank Tuttle, who made "Miss Bluebeard" and "The Lucky Devil" directed the production.

"The Trouble With Wives" True-to-Life Paramount Film

There's a sure cure for the trouble with wives and husbands, too, at the Lyceum theatre tonight in the Paramount picture, "The Trouble With Wives," featuring Florence Vidor, Tom Moore, Esther Ralston and Ford Sterling.

The story, written especially for the screen by Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin, is a comedy of newly married life. As the wife, Grace Hyatt, Florence Vidor wants only to be alone with her husband, to sit before the fire with him and memorize the days of their courtship.

Varieties in Sabers

The Italian sabre was introduced into England in 1900. It was already popular in other European countries. Both edge and point are sharp in continental countries of Europe, but not in Great Britain—the back edge is sharpened only for some eight inches from the point.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Dec. 7.—Stocks made further progress on the side of advancing prices at the start of the new week notwithstanding a rise in call money to 5 1/2 per cent. This stiffening was due to preparations for tax payments and government financing due the middle of the month. Consequently it was ignored by bullish interests whose buying operations went ahead with considerable aggressiveness in many sections of the list.

Railroad shares were favored owing to the optimism felt over the outlook for early action on the more important consolidations now that congress has convened. New highs on the current advances were reached by Atlantic Coast Line, Louisville and Nashville, Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania and other representative issues.

Price movements in the industrial list were less uniform, owing to reports of selling in Industrial Alcohol, American Can and other special issues. However, this class of stocks maintained a fairly buoyant tone and substantial advances occurred in number.

SIXTY-NINTH CONGRESS CONVENED TODAY

TAXATION IS THE PRINCIPAL ISSUE BEFORE BODY

WORLD COURT, FARM RELIEF, AIR DEFENSE ALSO TOPICS

ONLY PRELIMINARY REGULATIONS COMPLIED WITH IN OPENING SESSIONS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Dec. 7.—With accustomed solemnity and simple ceremony the new sixty-ninth congress elected last November convened here at noon today to cope with tax reduction, the world court, farm relief and matters of air defense.

It was the Coolidge congress rolled in by the tremendous majority of the chief executive in the election last year which today assumed legislative control of the nation.

The parliamentary clattery of gavels at noon stilled the buzz of conversation in the chambers of the senate and the house and officially opened the regular session.

The familiar faces of many statesmen who died or were defeated were absent but in their places were the ambitions of a younger generation. There were four newcomers to the senate, selected since the special session last March and the first official step of the new congress was taken when they marched down before the rostrum to be sworn in by Vice President Charles G. Dawes. The house had no special March session like the senate and one third of the entire membership took the oath of office as new members.

In the galleries watching the preliminary ritual were the highest diplomats and social lights of the capital. Women gowned in fashion, ambassadors in brilliant gold braided uniforms, army and navy officials, statesmen in their frocked coats and retired senators and congressmen all gave color to the opening scene.

Only the preliminary regulations were complied with in the opening sessions and the actual business of legislation will not begin until tomorrow.

In the house republicans went through the function of electing Rep. Nicholas Longworth, republican, Ohio, as speaker, although the election amounted to little more than a formality because of the undisputed republican majority. Prayer was rendered by the chaplain and requirements of the constitution were complied with, in preparation for beginning consideration of the new tax bill Wednesday. The official totals on the first roll call showed 247 republicans, 133 democrats, 3 farmer-laborites and 2 socialists, comprising the personnel, thus assuring the administration undisputed control.

In the senate Dawes called the session to order and prayer was recited by the regular chaplain. There the list showed 56 republicans, 39 democrats and 1 farmer-laborite but the anti-administration color of many of the republicans left the numerical majority of the republicans considerably in doubt.

The four new senators were: Geo. H. Williams, St. Louis, Mo., republican appointed to take the seat made vacant by the death of Seldon P. Spencer; Robert M. LaFollette, junior, elected to the seat of his father; Gerald Nye, appointed to succeed Senator Ladd, and Arthur R. Robinson of Indianapolis, succeeding Senator Ralston who died.

Under the surface of joviality of comrades back together again from the 48 states after nine months at home there was the deep rooted spirit of antagonism over the legislative battles to come. There was anticipation of the quarrels to come over tax reduction, Muscle Shoals, the world court, farm relief and the air service furor which jam the calendar for what was intended to be a short session.

Leaders of both houses intend to adjourn in June if possible. The session can hardly be carried on through the summer because 27 senators and one third of the house are up for re-election in November and must be home long before that time to carry on their campaigns.

If the program is to be cleared, however, a longer session will be required.

The first question to be taken up is the new tax bill. Everything is oiled for its quick adoption by the house. Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee intends to bring it up day after tomorrow and limit debate so that a vote can be had next Monday at the latest. Green intends to have only four days of discussion.

The bill will strike a snag in the senate, however. It probably will not be reported out of the finance committee until the middle of January and its opponents are primed for a long drawn out attack upon it.

Until the tax bill is ready the senate will take up proposals for American adherence to the international

INSURGENTS ARE ALREADY ON WAR PATH

Washington, Dec. 7.—With its insurgents already on the war path, the body that is to provide the new $325,000,000 tax reduction and wrestle with the world court, farm relief, prohibition, the Mitchell air defense program and coal legislation comes into power.

Only the formalities of convening were scheduled for the opening day but underneath the surface of the ceremony lay a new bitterness engendered by a row between the LaFollette groups and the majority administration republicans.

In a statement on the eve of the opening of congress the Wisconsin delegation in the house, backed by those claiming to represent "progressives of North Dakota, Minnesota, New York and Illinois, declared its defiance of the administration organization and announced it would follow the same program it inaugurated in the last session when it held the balance of power.

The action interrupted peace moves which had been prominent during the pre-session maneuvering and reprisals are expected to follow.

The insurgents decided that they would reject proffers of "bargaining or compromise" from the administration group and refuse to vote for the republican candidate, Rep. Nicholas Longworth as speaker.

They will cast their ballots, their statement said, for Rep. Henry Allen Cooper, the aged Wisconsin insurgent, who presented the insurgent platform to the convention that nominated Mr. Coolidge in Cleveland last year.

"Under the circumstances we cannot vote for Mr. Longworth," the statement read. "Neither flattery nor suggestions concerning committee assignments nor threats will cause the Wisconsin delegation in the house to deviate from such course of action as, in its judgment, the public seems to require."

An hour before the session opened, the republicans of the senate were to meet in conference to determine what should be done regarding Senators LaFollette, Nye, Brookhart and Frazier, the senate insurgents. Preparations had been made for the welcoming of LaFollette in the republican ranks but the turn of his house group may have an effect upon the arrangements.

The legal right of Nye to his appointment by Gov. Sorlie, North Dakota, will be questioned by Sen. Ernst, republican, chairman of the privileges and elections committee on the floor.

Ernst will ask that Nye's credentials be referred to the privileges and elections committee and that administration of the oath be withheld. Nye's colleague, Sen. Frazier, nonpartisan leaguer, of North Dakota, has indicated that he will introduce a resolution demanding that Nye be immediately seated and thereby throw the entire matter before the senate for debate.

After the formalities of organization it is proposed that both houses should adjourn in respect to members that have died during the recess. The leaders will meet Mr. Coolidge tomorrow when he returns from Chicago and present him with the usual resolutions announcing that congress is in session and ready to do business.

Despite the insurgent opposition, Longworth will be easily elected. Republicans have sufficient votes without the aid of the Wisconsin delegation and other scattered ballots. The demands will go through the formality of nominating and voting for their floor leader, Rep. Finis Garrett, Tennessee, as a mark of respect, but there is no possibility of his election.

BRILLIANT RITUAL OF OPENING CEREMONY

Washington, Dec. 7.—A distinguished audience looked down upon the pits of the senate and the house of representatives as Vice President Charles G. Dawes and William Tyler Page, clerk of the house, ascended the presiding rostrums at noon and tapped their gavels summoning the

Freight Rates Asked by the Railroads Run to 50 Per Cent Increases---Cities Affected by I. C. C. Include Brainerd

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Freight rate advances amounting in some cases to 50 per cent between various Minnesota points were asked of the state railroad and warehouse commission today by railroads ordered to show reason why rates set by the state board should not be in force rather than those dictated by the interstate commerce commission.

Representatives of the roads involved countered the commission order with a statement that the only solution for problems arising from the two conflicting scales is a general increase in state levels to conform with interstate regulations. A decision by Chief Justice William H. Taft in the Wisconsin rate case was cited by the railroads in support of their contention.

Cities affected by the interstate commerce commission order are: St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Crookston, Fergus Falls, Detroit, Sauk Center, Thief River Falls, Wadena, Brainerd, St. Cloud, Willmar, Albert Lea, Rochester, Mankato, Winona and Pipestone. The rates between these points are considerably higher than for towns still under state regulation.

As an example of the unfairness of this situation, A. L. Flinn, commission rate expert, pointed out that Brocton, a Soo Line point, is charged 30 cents a hundred pounds higher than Belgrade, the next station east and only a few miles away.

Shippers in various Minnesota cities countered with statements to the commission declaring they will establish motor truck freighting service if higher rates to them are not reduced or if a general increase is granted.

FARMER SHOT 18 YEAR OLD NEIGHBOR BOY

DAUGHTER HAD ADMITTED INTIMACY WITH HIM

LOUIS BRUEY, SLAYER, GIVES SELF UP, RELEASED ON BOND

Fairfield, Iowa, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Louis Bruey, farmer who shot and killed Sam McNeese, 18-year-old son of a neighbor, during a blizzard Saturday after his daughter had admitted intimacy with McNeese, was free under $15,000 bond today, charged with second degree murder.

Released from prison, Bruey today drove his team of horses back thru five miles of snow drifted roads, returning Edna, 14, and another daughter to his farm home. It was Edna who tearfully told him of intimacies with McNeese and precipitated the killing.

The tragedy rocked the entire community. After casually asking McNeese to "drop in" Bruey met the young farmer at the door, queried "Are you sorry?" and without waiting for a reply, killed him with a shotgun.

With the body of his victim in one room, Bruey went to the telephone and called the sheriff, telling him that the blizzard prevented him from going to Fairfield to surrender and asking authorities to come after him. The sheriff and two deputies finally battled their way through the raging storm and reached the Bruey home to arrest the father.

FIRE THREATENED TO DESTROY LEONARD

Bemidji, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Fire destroyed three buildings and for a time threatened destruction of the entire village of Leonard, 25 miles northwest of here, today. Loss is estimated at between $7,000 and $8,000.

Although the village is without fire protection apparatus, citizens prevented spread of flames from the three buildings destroyed until firemen from Clearbrook, 10 miles distant, arrived.

The fire started from uncertain cause in the rear of the Skime Brothers store. It spread to a shoe repair shop and barber shop, all located on the same corner. The buildings were consumed before the neighboring fire department arrived.

new congress to the nation's business.

The crack of gavels hushed a buzz of conversation and a general round of handshaking among the assembling members and the big show was auspiciously opened.

In the house Dr. Shera Montgomery intoned a prayer and in the senate Rev. J. J. Muir asked divine guidance. Then the formal business was set under way.

Dawes ordered the roll to be called and when all had answered their names and it was ascertained that a quorum was present, the four new senators, LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin; Williams, republican, Missouri; Robinson, republican, Indiana, and Nye, republican, North Dakota, arose to be sworn.

Page, in the house, ordered the roll called by states and when it was concluded, he announced nominations for the speakership were in order.

Representative "Nick" Longworth was nominated as the republican candidate; Rep. Finis Garrett, as democratic, and Rep. Henry Allen Cooper, Wisconsin, as insurgent.

Tellers were appointed by Page and stationed themselves at the front of the chamber while members filed slowly through, casting their votes.

TO INVESTIGATE PLANE ACCIDENT AT ST. PAUL TODAY

St. Paul, Dec. 7.—(UP)—A board of officers of the 109th aviation squadron, Minnesota national guard, today started investigation of the airplane crash late yesterday that resulted in the death of Lieut. E. A. Michaud and serious injury of W. E. Hillard, 60.

Michaud, a prominent business man and sportsman, although not a rated pilot, was flying the ship. Technically, therefore, he was without authorization to pilot the plane. Under the circumstances, officers explained, a board inquiry will be necessary.

WITNESS HAS BEEN THREATENED WITH DIRE DEATH

WM. MCGINNIS, MINNEAPOLIS ENGINEER, GAVE INFORMATION

GAVE POLICE CLUE THAT REV. BIRKELAND HAD BEEN KIDNAPED

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—William McGinnis, Minneapolis engineer, who gave police information bearing out the theory that Knute B. Birkeland, wealthy former minister, was kidnapped and murdered, has been threatened with death, police revealed today.

On the night of Birkeland's mysterious disappearance, McGinnis told police, he was forced off the sidewalk in front of the apartment where the body was later found, by three men, two of whom were helping a third, apparently intoxicated or drugged. The helpless member of the trio answered Birkeland's description.

To test the validity of McGinnis' story, police piled a number of overcoats in a corner at headquarters. The informant was told to single out the one worn by the man he saw carried in the direction of the death apartment. Birkeland's was the one unhesitatingly selected.

Further credence is given McGinnis' information by the visitation of an unknown man who represented himself as a private detective and told the engineer his life was in danger. No detective can be found who conferred alone with McGinnis or made such a statement.

Detectives believe the threat was from Birkeland's murderers and that the self-represented detective was connected with the abduction plot.

WEEK-END TRAFFIC DEATHS IN TWIN CITIES

Minneapolis, Dec. 7.—(UP)—One girl is recovering today from injuries received in the same automobile accident that resulted in one fatality, the only week-end traffic death in the twin cities.

Mamie Hakli died after an automobile had skidded, crushing her against a street hydrant. Florence Gosh, her companion, was seriously injured but is expected to recover.

Titian Masterpiece to Be Given Showing

Minneapolis, Dec. 7.—(UP)—"The Temptation of Christ," famous Titian masterpiece recently acquired by the Minneapolis Institute of Art, will be given its first public northwest showing next Sunday. It was announced today.

Exhibited in New York, this month, the painting drew record throngs. It is enroute here this week and will be shown privately to members of the institute Saturday night.

LONGWORTH IS NAMED SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

THE OPENING SESSION REVEALS PLAINLY THE INSURGENT BATTLE FRONT

LATTER CAST THEIR BALLOTS FOR REP. ALLEN COOPER

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Dec. 7.—The new 69th congress convened today and immediately ran into the old insurgent controversy.

Rep. Nicholas Longworth, Ohio, was elected speaker of the house, as had been slated. But the opening session showed plainly the fight the insurgents plan to make upon administration programs.

The outstanding development behind all the frills of organizing the house and senate, which were elected with President Coolidge 18 months ago, was an announcement by house democrats that they would support the insurgents against any change in the present rules, thus embarrassing republicans who had planned the change.

At the same time the insurgents refused as they said they would, to vote for the republican candidate, Rep. Longworth, for house leader, and cast the ballots for one of their own number, Rep. Henry Allen Cooper, Wisconsin, although knowing that Longworth was assured of election.

Senate republicans re-raised the important issue with their leaders and the contemplated meeting of the republican committee on committees was called off so that some decision could be reached as to what is to be done with Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., who not only ignored an invitation to a republican conference Saturday but attended a conference of house insurgents meeting simultaneously. The issue over seating of another insurgent, Sen. Gerald P. Nye, non-partisan leaguer of North Dakota, was avoided in the senate when his colleagues agreed to refer the question to the senate privileges and elections committee as made by his friend, Sen. Frazier, another non-partisan leaguer from the same state.

The senate held only a 25 minutes' session in which the formalities of organization were transacted and adjournment was taken until tomorrow, when President Coolidge's message will be read.

The three new senators, LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin; Robinson, republican, Indiana, and Williams, republican, Missouri, whose rights to their seats were uncontested, were duly sworn and admitted to their seats.

Longworth succeeds Sen. Frederick Gillett of Massachusetts who advanced from the speakership which he held in the last congress to the upper house.

In an inaugural speech, accepting the office, Longworth expressed gratification to his republican colleagues and predicted the coming session would be a legislative voyage practically without partisan division.

The vote on the speakership was: Longworth, republican, 229; Finis Garrett, democrat, 173; Henry Allen Cooper, insurgent, 13. Five republicans voted "present."

Announcement of the vote was greeted with silence as Longworth's election had been a foregone conclusion since he was nominated last spring by the republican majority.

Died at Police Station

St. Paul—Edward Coffee, about 54, died at the police station yesterday shortly after he had been arrested for disorderly conduct. Death was caused by alcoholism. Police are searching for his relatives.

PORTLY WOMAN BANDIT BEATS VICTIM UNCONSCIOUS

Minneapolis, Dec. 7.—(UP)—A portly woman bandit described as 30 years old and 200 pounds heavy, today beat Mrs. Catherine Hoyt, 67, into unconsciousness in an effort to rob the aged woman's rooming house. Mrs. Hoyt's condition is said to be serious at the hospital where she was taken. The bandit escaped but without loot.

Had Plans to Give Welcome to La Follette

Washington, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The scheduled meeting of the Republican committee on committees of the senate was indefinitely postponed today because of action of Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., in attending an insurgent meeting Saturday instead of the Republican caucus.

Plans had been made to welcome LaFollette into the party ranks but his defiance of the Republican invitation coupled with his attendance at the house insurgent meeting caused the Republican leaders to delay action.

LaFollette's action caused a group of Republicans to rebel against the proposal that he be assigned to committees as a Republican. They insist that his attendance at an opposition meeting gives proof that he will not act as a party member in the senate and that the same medicine should be meted out to him as was given his father and three of his followers, who were barred from the Republican caucus last year.

It has long been customary for both parties to decide all organization matters before congress convenes and delay is granted only in cases of extreme necessity.

The question probably will be ironed out by the leaders during the day and a committee meeting held late today or tomorrow.

TAX REDUCTION BILL IS TRULY NONPARTISAN

Washington, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The $325,000,000 tax reduction bill is a "nonpartisan" measure and should be the maximum good to all people, ways and means committee informed the house today in introducing the revenue measure.

Slashes proposed in the bill, the committee said, are apportioned so that every taxpayer will be benefited. "On none of the votes taken in committee on the provisions of the bill," the committee said, "did the committee divide on partisan lines. With the exception of the periods when the nation was at war, it is the first time a great revenue bill has been so framed."

PRESIDENT'S FATHER HEARS SON TALK OVER THE RADIO

Plymouth, Vt., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Col. John C. Coolidge heard over his radio today the address which the president delivered in Chicago.

Receiving conditions were nearly perfect and the colonel said he could hear his son's voice "almost as well as if it were in the same room."

SIX CARLOADS OF ROUGH FISH TAKEN

Willmar, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Six carloads of rough fish have been taken from Eagle lake near here in the last month, V. E. Cantenbein, in charge of a seining crew, announced today. Each carload weighed between 20,000 and 30,000 pounds when shipped east. The record single haul in the month of operations was 70,000 pounds.

Rewards Offered to Solve Murder Mystery

Hutchinson, Minn., Dec. 7.—(UP)—A total of $1,500 reward is offered here today for information which will lead to solution of the mysterious death of Frank Micka, found apparently murdered in October.

The estate has offered $1,000, and the McLeod county commission $500. Micka's body was found concealed at the side of a country road near his farm. Robbery was thought the motive for murder.

P. R. WADSWORTH FILES FOR CONGRESS IN SIXTH DISTRICT

St. Paul, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Peter R. Wadsworth, Cass Lake attorney, today filed his candidacy for nomination to congress from the sixth district with the secretary of state. He is the first formally to announce entrance into the primary race next June.

ADDRESSES THE FARM BUREAU CHICAGO MEETING

WARNS AGAINST GOVERNMENT PRICE FIXING AS A PANACEA

LAUDS CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING AS WAY TO FARM PROSPERITY

By LUDWELL DENNY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Dec. 7.—High lights of President Coolidge's farm speech here today:

"Notwithstanding its present embarrassments agriculture as a whole should lead industry in future prosperity."

"I propose actively and energetically to assist the farmers to promote their welfare through co-operative marketing. They do not wish to put the government into the farming business."

"Wherever there is a farm there is the greatest opportunity for a true home."

"In intelligence, in education, in the general standards of living, farm life was never so well equipped as it is today."

"Some people would grow poor on a mountain of gold, while others would make a good living on a rock."

Chicago, Dec. 7.—President Coolidge today defended the present tariff as an aid to farmers, warned against government price fixing as a panacea for agriculture's ills and lauded co-operative marketing as a way to farm prosperity.

Addressing the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation here, the president enumerated the steps by which he believed agriculture can be put on a sound and independent basis.

These included extension of adequate storage facilities, co-operative marketing, information and advice from the agriculture department and farm loan bank credits. Without discussing any of these in detail, Mr. Coolidge devoted most of his speech to exposing alleged fallacies of government marketing panaceas and emphasizing farm benefits resulting from protective tariff.

Leaders in the co-operative movement and the agriculture department have prepared a farm bill embodying his principles, he said.

The president opposed proposals for government corporations which would directly or indirectly fix prices or buy and sell farm products, because, he said, they would create bureaucracy, destroy co-operatives and the farmers' independence and stimulate over-production, ending in "complete collapse."

Elaborate statistics were produced by the president to show that the present tariff rates benefit the farmers and should not be revised. With over 50 major articles purchased by the farmers already on the free list, he said there remains "only 12 per cent of outside imports upon which the agricultural industry pays any part of the tariff."

"The total adverse cost to the farmer on account of the tariff is only between two per cent and three per cent of his purchases."

"On the other side, protection is a great benefit to agriculture as a whole. The $780,000,000 of agricultural produce imported last year had to pay $260,000,000 for the privilege of coming into the U. S. to compete with our own farm production. Protection greatly aids diversification and so eliminates an unprofitable surplus. Any study of dairy products, flax, wool and many other commodities will demonstrate that it does."

In adding industry the present tariff helps agriculture because "prosperity in our industries is of more value to the farmer than the whole export market for foodstuffs," he added.

Instead of in tariff revision and price fixing, the president saw hope in the farm loan and intermediate credit banks which have loaned $1,200,000,000 at moderate rates to 350,000 farmers, and in co-operative marketing.

"For a more orderly marketing calculated to secure a better range of prices, the co-operative movement promises the greatest success," he said. "Already they are handling $2,500,000,000 of farm produce, or (Continued on Page 4)

STITZEL WRITES OF FLORIDA TRIP

Former Dispatch Scribe Gives His Impressions of Boom in Sunshine State

STORIES OF FLORIDA UNTRUE

Living Costs in Miami About The Same as in Brainerd Except Rents

The following letter has just been received by the Dispatch force:

Miami, Florida
Dec. 1st, 1935

Hello Dispatch force:

We arrived Saturday afternoon, a day ahead of the schedule that we had set for the trip, and made two side excursions, too. The first one out of Chattanooga, Tenn., when we visited Lookout Mountain and the Chickamauga battlefields, and the second on Thanksgiving Day, when we went to St. Augustine, the oldest city in the U. S., and went through the ruins of the old Spanish fortress.

We enjoyed every minute of the trip immensely. Only had tire trouble once, didn't get into any rains or muddy roads, and had no accidents. The only really bad roads we encountered were in Southern Kentucky, and one can hardly call them roads; merely trails that consist of ledges of shale that are very hard on tires. If one makes 8 miles per hour there it's fast traveling.

We kept track of the gasoline we used, out of curiosity, and fed 98 gallons through the old bus. If it is 2,300 miles down here, as several say it is, then we averaged 23 miles per gallon, which isn't bad mileage, considering the side trips and mountains we drove.

It was so cold on the trip that we couldn't camp out as we had planned to do, until we struck southern Tennessee, and then for only one night. Didn't try camping again until we struck southern Georgia, and then it wasn't very warm. The tourist camps through the south and in Florida are much different than ours at Brainerd. They are much larger and in addition to space for tents there are one and two room cabins that can be rented for the night. All have running water and electric lights, most of them have shower baths and sanitary sewerage systems. The fee runs from 25c to 75c per night for tent space. We didn't inquire what the cabins cost. There were 800 tourists in the camp we stopped in just across the Florida line in Georgia, and on the average of 1,000 in the camps in this state.

We got our first impressions of Miami and this section of the state on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. M. L. McClaran, formerly of Park Rapids, (Mrs. McC. is a sister of Kirk Smith) took us under their wing and entertained us all day. We motored during the morning, afternoon and evening, and dined at their home in Coral Gables, a suburb of this city.

I'm afraid to tell you what we saw, for I know you wouldn't want to believe me, as truthful as you know I am (?) and also its nearly impossible to explain the situation here. People down here think in hundreds of thousands and millions of dollars. They think nothing of paying $50,000 and $100,000 for a good residence lot, good in their estimation, that is, but to a Minnesotan who isn't imbued with the Florida spirit, or bitten by the land bug here, it is hardly worth 50 cents.

I thought I knew what driving in traffic means, having negotiated the busy streets of the twin cities and Chicago, but they are like country roads in comparison to driving here in Miami. I'd be a wreck if I drove much here.

The first thing that we found out, was that not half of the stories against Florida that we heard in the north and along the route, are true. Most of the stories one reads in the northern papers are pure propaganda, nothing more, and we are told that big banking institutions up there are responsible for these falsehoods, being afraid that too much of their funds will be withdrawn for investment down here. I can't swear to that, but I do know for a fact that most of the stories against this country are not true in any sense.

We were told, among other things, that living was "sky-high" here. We have found that groceries are no more expensive down here than in Brainerd. Milk and all dairy products are very expensive, but there are good substitutes so that we don't miss them. I bought a fine beefsteak, last night for 30 cents per pound, which isn't bad, considering the fact that it was guaranteed to be northern beef, and one can tell immediately the difference between that and beef that is native here. The latter is very unpalatable. We buy dandy big grapefruit two for five cents. The big question is the housing problem, and that does make a fellow think. It can be solved by several families pooling together and taking a large house.

John has registered some heavy rainfalls in the Dispatch, but he has never touched what we went through on Sunday night and yesterday morning. According to the papers, (and I, personally, have no reason for doubting them) Miami suffered from the heaviest tropical rain in its history. One inch per hour fell for 14 hours. Perhaps I'd better repeat that so you won't think that I made a mistake, but better still, I'll enclose a clipping to prove my statement. Water in some down-town stores was nearly knee deep yesterday morning, and the water-damage runs into the millions. The heaviest rain in the history of the local weather bureau is 9 inches, we are told. I know some Northern localities that don't get any more than 14 inches of rain per season.

We have met several northern, or rather Brainerd folks. As I write this, Ed. Bane is sitting at my elbow, Werner Mahlum and Ted Krechtmir (That isn't spelled right, but you know who I mean) are in the office. I met Kirk Smith Sunday and his wife is expected here next Saturday.

Everyone tells us that opportunities down here for employment or for good investments, are excellent. I am going "job hunting" tomorrow and will prove the truth of that statement then. I just met a man a few minutes ago who they say came here with $1,000 six months ago, and last week cleaned out his holdings for an even half million dollars. Sounds fishy, doesn't it? But if you have seen some of the quick turn-overs and large profits that have been made, you are ready to believe almost everything.

With all of the development that this state has had, Florida improvement hasn't even been scratched. And this improvement and development isn't alone in the hands of promoters. Uncle Sam is taking a big part in it, and his work is being done in a most substantial manner. I can see, now, with others here, that this isn't a boom, but a healthy development.

There maybe, and undoubtedly will be, a leveling of some of the land values, but not in the majority of cases, for big capitalists and moneyed men are investing here for their winter homes, and also in retail and wholesale enterprises, the latter with the idea of making their investments pay.

Since we arrived, the weather has been quite warm, around 70 today, and even warmer yesterday and Sunday. We are too close to the tropics down here for it to be otherwise.

We learned from Ed. Bane of the death of R. R. Wise and Art Hagerberg, both of which were distinct surprises. No doubt there is much other Brainerd news that we have not learned as yet. As soon as we get settled will order the weekly Dispatch to keep in touch with the old home town.

Greetings to you all, upstairs and down, and best wishes to my successor. I hope they enjoy the work there as much as I did, and that they do better than yours truly, as I have no doubt they will do.

With best regards to all, I am,
Very sincerely,
STITZEL.

Tidal Rivers

The term "drowned river system" refers to such a system of tidal rivers as the Hudson, Delaware, Susquehanna, Potomac and James, wherein the trunk valley and its branches were submerged by the sea entering their lower parts because of a sinking of the edge of the continent. This has made possible wonderful harbors at the mouths of these tidal streams.

According to the report of the Brainerd public library for November, the work is steadily increasing as new patrons are added, there being 150 new cards issued this month, 92 to adults, and 58 to children. 4,318 books were issued to 4,307 patrons. At this rate, books wear out rapidly and must be replaced and new ones added. This month there were 70 books added and fifteen of these were gifts.

The juvenile department is most happy to acknowledge the gift of twenty-five dollars from Mrs. Frank Hall, (the net proceeds from the Douglas Donaldson lecture on "Art in the Home.") This is especially welcome as we are devising ways and means by which to purchase some much needed tables and chairs for this department, our appropriation from the city being utterly inadequate. This gift will form a nest egg, to which we hope, others will be added, until we have our ideal department completed. Another egg, in the form of $5.00 is on its way to join the nest egg—a gift of the N. E. Improvement League. The department is most grateful for these gifts, and take this means of expressing their thanks to the donors.

THE TOWN MEETING

THE meeting called by Mayor Cain on last Friday night at which was represented many of the elective and appointive officers as well as civic bodies of the city may well have been called a town meeting.

One man who has long been identified with the civic interests of the city said that he never saw a more representative gathering of all those interested in the city's civic betterment. The spirit was excellent, and many of the suggestions made seemed practical. The remarks made were to the point. As a rule, speakers held firm to the purpose of the meeting. Things were brought out which Brainerd needs and which can be accomplished by co-operation.

The remarks made clearly demonstrated that the city receives its best from those who receive little, if any, compensation for their services. There were men present who had served up to 17 years most faithfully without any compensation whatever. Others had served for shorter periods and all seemed willing to give their best for the common interests of our city, for its moral, physical, mental and financial benefits. Mayor Cain is to be complimented upon his initiative in this matter and the city will surely benefit by it.

There was quite a discussion on the problem of poor relief in Brainerd. We doubt if any method can ever be adopted which will adequately meet the situation. You cannot expect the city to care for all the calls. The so-called "poor farm" system of county relief had some good points, but whatever they were, that system was voted down and out. The matter of poor relief, of taking care of our indigent citizens when they become old and are charges, is engrossing the attention of state legislatures too. In some states "sunset homes" have been instituted and the poor gaining admission are treated with every courtesy and friendliness. The hurry and strife of modern industrial forces, sickness and accident, reduces some citizens to want. Statistics of life insurance companies show accurately that out of every hundred starting out in life, a large percentage cannot take care of themselves at advanced ages.

Then there is another angle to poor relief. And that is that well-to-do relatives should share the burden and not thrust it all upon the state. In many cases the poor need hospital attention and that is something that can only be given by a hospital and not by a so-called "poor farm" or any other system.

Crow Wing county now leases its so-called "poor farm" for agricultural purposes. The farm is a valuable piece of property, containing, it is reported, valuable iron ore deposits. When this is mined, as it eventually will be, the property will become a source of income for the county, a real asset, and will serve to reduce our county taxes.

One of the results of the "town meeting" was the determination on the part of several leaders to see that some movement be started which would coordinate the work of the various agencies working for civic betterment. THE DISPATCH has called this to the attention of Brainerd, citing the example of Minneapolis, where some twenty civic clubs have formed a council composed of representatives from each club, meeting regularly and aiming to map out plans to prevent overlapping or duplication of civic work.

Such a council would outline more specifically the duties of each civic organization. Meetings of the representatives of the various organization would discuss the needs of the city and suggest to the organizations best fitted to perform such a task that it accept the leadership in such work. Perhaps no suggestion made was better received nor more favorably commented upon. Mayor Cain said it was this idea which inspired his calling of the meeting.

The frank discussions revealed an intense interest in city betterment, but a decided weakness in executing them. This suggestion seemed a practical way out and it is hoped it may be worked out if by no better manner than by repetition of such town meetings, although it was shown that the plan could be simplified.

SPECIAL GRAND JURY MAKES A RECORD

THE special grand jury which convened at Brainerd for a one-day session made a record in its deliberations, returning 63 indictments involving 41 persons.

All the indictments returned covered alleged violations of the liquor laws and have been followed by arraignments. Had these various cases toiled their way slowly through municipal court and thence to the district court, they would have involved a large expense on the part of the county.

THE Minnesota Power & Light company has announced the close of their two million dollar sale of preferred stock, the subscriptions received more than totalling that amount. Any company stand well in the estimation of the public, says the Park Rapids Enterprise, when it can put on sales of stock as this company has and have them go over for so large a sum in so brief a time.

THE address of President Reed of the Minnesota Farm Bureau given at Brainerd has received wide publicity and much comment. Farm papers throughout Minnesota have also given the speech mention.

TARIFF FOR FARMERS

nearly one-fifth of the annual production.

"Unless all past experience is to be disregarded, notwithstanding its present embarrassments, agriculture as a whole should lead industry in future prosperity," Mr. Coolidge concluded.

"There have been discussions which seem to indicate so far that our agriculture is becoming decadent and that it has already reached its highest point, and that, becoming unprofitable, it is likely to diminish. Nothing in the appearance of the country or of its people as I have travelled over it has seemed to indicate any deterioration, nor do I find anything in the farm census and reports that warrants this conclusion."

Speaking of the future of agriculture, the president said:

"The expansion of our country down to almost as late as 1890 was an agricultural expansion. A large majority of our inhabitants were engaged in that occupation. They not only tilled the soil, but they owned it. They not only directed the government but they made it. The fertile lands and generous homestead laws under American institutions all worked together to produce an entirely new position of place and power of agriculture. When there was added to this the marvelous inventions of farm machinery which have come into modern life, it made it possible to establish here the first agricultural empire which did not rest upon an oppressed peasantry. This was a stupendous achievement."

"Following this came the vast business growth which brought great changes. The town and industrial population for the first time began to exceed that of the farms. From the surplus of food products requiring foreign markets we began to reach something like a balance between domestic production and consumption. Before 1910, so wise a man as James J. Hill expressed the opinion that in the near future we should be importers of wheat."

"Under normal conditions, Mr. Hill might have been correct, but the world war intervened. The enormous demand from abroad brought the high prices which so stimulated production that it reached a new record in amount and value. Without this service, famine undoubtedly would have prevailed over wide areas."

"This resulted in a great inflation and in an overproduction, reaching its summit in 1919, which was followed by a sharp decline."

lowed by the inevitable deflation of 1920 and 1921. The best economic authority tells us this was inevitable. Whether it was or not, it came. It afflicted both agriculture and industry. The values of manufacturing plants and their stocks on hand went down, their orders were cancelled, their operations ceased, and the buying capacity of their wage earners being greatly reduced, the consumption of food products declined, causing a fall in prices that reached back to the farm. The resulting losses have never been fully recovered either in industry or agriculture but starting from the low point of 1920 and 1921 both have made progress and from every indication appear to be entering an era of prosperity."

Long and prolonged cheering interrupted the president when he pledged support of the co-operative marketing movement.

"I propose actively and energetically to assist the farmers to promote their welfare through co-operative marketing," Mr. Coolidge said, and immediately the audience was on its feet, cheering and stamping its feet. The president concluded his speech at 12:05 and was escorted to luncheon by Bradfute. "A co-operative luncheon" was served, all of the food coming from farmers' co-operative organizations. Mr. Coolidge was served a portion of "prize beef" from the recent International Livestock exposition. The meat sold at $7 a pound.

"It's Not
Far to the Next
Red Crown Station"

How often have you heard your friends say, "It's not far to a Red Crown station" when something went wrong or when the gas supply was running low.

To the motoring public, and that includes nearly all of us, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service station is more than a convenience. It has become an essential and indispensable institution, upon which the public has come to depend.

It would be as inconvenient today to live in a world without grocery stores, as without these service stations.

Scattered at carefully selected points throughout the Middle West are 3500 of these stations, owned and operated by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

They are clean, comfortable, convenient. There you may be sure of getting the gasoline and oil you need, at the lowest market price. There you will find ready for your use, free air for your tires, free water for your radiator, free counsel in case of trouble, and a willing, cheerful attendant to serve you. There you will find ample toilet facilities and in most cases a telephone and other conveniences.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) chain of service stations has been a development of the past few years. They came into being first in answer to an unformulated demand on the part of touring motorists, and they have been continued and multiplied because our patrons demand the type of service we have established.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service stations do much more than sell oil products—they are convenient points of meeting and first-aid centers in time of difficulty.

These stations and the service they render, typify the ideals animating the Management of this Company in its relations with the consumer. Efficient service, cheerfully rendered, is the foundation of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) success. To give its customers a little more than they pay for, is the undeviating policy of this organization, and this policy is recognized throughout the ten states where this Company has facilities for distribution.

Through a long chain of operations from the oil field to the service station, this Company devotes all its abilities and resources to the service of the thirty million people of the Middle West.

MOOSE HOLD A BIG INITIATION

Take in One of the Finest Classes in the History of Local Organization

CHARTER OPEN TO DEC. 11

Speakers of the Evening Were H. A. Swanson, Robert W. Crust, J. F. Elkins

Last Friday night Brainerd Lodge No. 1246 of the Loyal Order of Moose held one of the largest initiations and get-together meetings it has ever had, and took in a class of the finest men in the history of the local organization.

The local organization has received a special dispensation from Director General James J. Davis, secretary of labor to have its charter open under the $10 initiation fee until next Friday, December 11th. This announcement was received by cheers from the members present, as many of their friends would like to join, but were unable to be present Friday night and this will give them another week to make application for membership in the organization under open charter fees. The closed charter fee is $50 and a life membership is $250, life members being entitled to all benefits of the order without further payments.

The principal speakers of the evening were Attorney H. A. Swanson, Robert W. Crust and J. F. Elkins. Mr. Swanson spoke on Mooseheart, an dthe wonderful work the Moose are doing there. The members present were highly impressed with his speech and the thorough manner in which he emphasized the good work carried on by the organization.

Mr. Crust said he did not know very much about the order prior to becoming a member, but having learned its advantages, he is a Moose through and through. He received much applause as the members realize what an asset Mr. Crust is to the order.

J. F. Elkins, who is acting dictator spoke on the good of the order, bringing out the many good points, including Mooseheart and Moosehaven Extension service. Mr. Elkins is very familiar with the work of the lodge and its many new features. He told the boys to go out and tell the people of Brainerd what the Loyal Order of Moose is and what it does for its members.

Following the initiatory ceremony, a basket social and dance were held and a good time was had by all.

Mr. Van Iten will remain here another week to supervise the membership drive, and predicts the lodge will gain its goal of 700 members in the coming week. The total membership is now over 300.

SUPREME COURT DENIES REVIEW OF ALIEN PROPERTY SUIT

Washington, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The U. S. supreme court denied review of a suit to decide the disposition of property belonging to United States citizens placed with American trust companies by German trust companies, before the war and later seized by the alien property custodian.

The suit which is one of several similar ones pending involving millions of dollars, was brought by the Farmers Loan and Trust Co., New York City, to recover seized property for its creditors and policy holders. The company lost in lower courts.

Unkind

One day, at the table of the late Mr. Pease (dean of Ely), just as the cloth was being removed, the subject of discourse happened to be that of an extraordinary mortality amongst lawyers. The dean, who was quite deaf, rose as his friend finished his remarks, and gave the company grace: "For this and every other mercy, the Lord's holy name be praised."—London Answer.

Horrors of Next War

Almost Beyond Belief

"The war of the future," says General Nollet of the French general staff, "the war of the future will be 100 per cent efficient." Just what this means may be gathered from a glance at the mechanical perfection of the death-dealing instruments that would be utilized in the event of such an awful holocaust. Is the reflection of Pierre Van Passen, writing in the Atlanta Constitution. For instead of liquid fire we have now Lewisite gas, which is invisible, sinks and would search out every dugout and cellar, while it also attacks the skin and almost always kills, having a spread fifty times greater than that of any other poison gas. A dozen of these Lewisite air bombs, will practically eliminate the population of such cities as Berlin or Paris. The planes carrying these missiles will be directed by wireless, so that the airplane becomes the super gun. A great metropolis teeming with life one evening will be a huge graveyard at break of day. Formal declarations of war will become obsolete, witness the outbreak between Greece and Bulgaria. There will be no warning. Tanks will be used like super-dreadnoughts, for this is the verdict reached at the recent British army maneuvers. They will crush whole villages in their crawling annihilation. Poison gases will even destroy the productivity of the soil for many years to come, as was the case in some instances in France during the last conflict. The contemplation of the horrors and the chaos in life that must inevitably follow such a cataclysm would overshadow any disaster the world has ever witnessed, including the black plague of the Middle ages, or even the flood of Noah's days. The very terror and unparalleled ruthlessness of such a war may well prove the strongest weapon ever devised against war. For it would mean the suicide of the human race.

Spilled Wine Brings Luck

An American senator traveling in the Balkans was invited to dine with one of the ruling monarchs. The American being of a somewhat nervous temperament it is easy to imagine his dismay when, as toasts were proposed, his champagne glass slipped from his hand and the contents were spilled over the tablecloth. His royal host, however, was more than equal to the occasion. He immediately touched the spot on the tablecloth with his fingers, rubbed some of the spilled wine on the back of his ear and exclaimed, "You have brought good luck on my house." As a matter of fact, however, the king was prompted by an old superstition. It is a well-known Slav saying that if wine is spilled by a guest, good luck will attend the house.

Does Your Loud Speaker Say "Ess" or "Eth"

The usual garbling of sound by loud speakers is overcome by the new Grebe "Colortone"

THE sounds that come from the Synchronphase are independent of loud speaker control. The proper adaptation of speaker to set is no longer necessary for satisfactory reception.

By means of the Grebe "Colortone" you can vary, to your taste, the quality or timbre of voice or music from high, thin pitch to low, deep, round tones. You can also bring out low tones that would otherwise be inaudible, and eliminate, to a great degree, hissing sounds and the usual form of scratchy static—"S" sounds like "S" and "H" like "H". In the Synchronphase, artificiality of sound—the bane of radio reception—gives place to true, natural tones.

Add to this Grebe development, other exclusive Grebe features, and you get in the Synchronphase, radio reception unapproached in quality. Consider, for example:

The "Selective Sensitivity" conferred by Grebe Binocular Coils.

GRANGE EARNINGS IN FIVE GAMES $82,000

MAY REALIZE
$200,000 AT END OF SEASON

FIRST SEASON AS PROFESSIONAL
FOOTBALL PLAYER IS
LUCRATIVE ONE

RED GAVE A TALK OVER RADIO,
STRESSING VALUE OF SELF
CONFIDENCE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Dec. 7.—With total earnings of $82,000 for five games played in eleven days, "Red" Grange is almost certain to realize about $200,000 for his first season as a professional football player.

The red haired star of the Chicago Bears got $30,000 as his share of the receipts when 70,000 spectators jammed into the Polo Grounds yesterday to see his team beat the New York Giants, 19 to 7. This sum, no doubt, will not be equalled in any other games this season, but the returns will be substantial from the games that he is to play in Washington, Boston, Detroit and Chicago this week and the games that he is to play in Florida.

Last night over the radio Grange, in stressing the value of self confidence, said he had never gone into a game without the firm belief that he would get away once.

He had to wait until the final period yesterday to get away but he did it when he grabbed a forward pass thrown by Hinkley Haines, the New York star, and dashed 35 yards for a touchdown.

He played in only three quarters of the game. He gained 53 yards on 11 plays from scrimmage; threw two completed forward passes, out of three attempts for a gain of 22 yards; caught one pass for a gain of 23 yards; ran back two kicks for 13 yards and finished with a run of 35 yards for a touchdown on an intercepted pass.

His running against the Giants, in terms of dollars, was worth about $220 a yard and his time pay valued at about $7,500 a minute. Thus far, in his professional career, he has averaged $15,000 a game and the revenue for the use of his name for other purposes cannot be computed. Figuring on the returns that Jack Dempsey and Babe Ruth received for the use of their names, it is quite possible he will realize at least $50,000.

4 TEAMS TO PLAY
EACH OTHER TWICE IN THE SAME SEASON

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(UP)—For the first time since 1892 Big Ten conference football will see four teams play each other twice in the same season. Michigan and Minnesota and Northwestern and Indiana will engage in two games next fall.

The coaches and other athletic officials who attended the Big Ten meeting Saturday pointed to the precedent of 1892 when Michigan played Cornell two games in the same season. In that same year Northwestern and Chicago also played two games.

Coaches found it extremely difficult to prepare acceptable schedules because of the new ruling calling for each Big Ten team to play at least four conference games a season.

Coach Spears of Minnesota, unable to secure the teams he wanted, finally asked Coach Yost of Michigan for two games and the latter acquiesced. Northwestern, dropped from the Michigan schedule, then hooked up with Indiana for a home and home schedule.

PROF. LEAGUE
HOCKEY GAMES

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Both professional league hockey games played here Sunday resulted in tie scores. Pullman and Coal City fought to a scoreless tie.

The Buda team and Corliss and Sparta team tied 4-4.

In an exhibition contest the Bricklayers won from the Canadians 3-1. Other exhibitions resulted as follows:

Ulster United 1, Sparta 2nd 1.
Roosevelt A. C. 2, Olympia 2nd 0.
Sundowner 3, Good Samaritan 1.

Earliest U. S. Industry

Got Needed Experience

Connie Mack, basing his pennant hopes upon a team of recruits, unused to the grueling of a long hard season, fell by the wayside only about a month before the close of the season. Although the team broke at the crucial moment this year, many fans will say that the Athletics should be the pennant winners of 1935. All the team needed was experience and it got plenty of it in the campaign just finished. The Athletics won and lost in spurts, which is not the characteristic of a champion team.

HORNSBY, MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 7.—It came as no great surprise that Rogers Hornsby, the brilliant manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, was named as the winner of the National league's $1,000 prize as the most valuable player in the league.

It would have been a surprise if Hornsby had not been elected by the committee of eight baseball writers as he was beyond doubt the outstanding player of the season, not only as an individual star but as a team player.

There was some surprise, however, in that he scored only three first place votes and his other points on two seconds and two thirds. Cuyler, the brilliant young Pittsburgh outfielder, polled two firsts and George Kelly, Glenn Wright and Dave Bancroft secured one each.

The vote, as announced by James Gould, president of the Baseball Writers' association, was:

Hornsby.....	73
Cuyler.....	61
Kelly.....	52
Wright.....	43
Vance.....	42
Bancroft.....	41
Bottomley.....	28
Traynor.....	27
Frish.....	12
Roush.....	12

It will be observed that the world's champion Pittsburgh Pirates have three players, Cuyler, Wright and Traynor in the first ten and Max Carey polled eleven votes; the St. Louis Cardinals have two in Hornsby and Bottomley and the Giants have a pair in Frish and Kelly.

Some of the ranking under Hornsby was surprising. Many critics thought that George Kelly, the all-around star of the Giants, was the closest rival that Hornsby would have but Cuyler was second with nine votes majority.

Cuyler perhaps profited by the notice obtained from playing with a championship team and in starring in the world's series. Kelly, who kept the Giants from falling clear out of the pennant race, possible sacrificed attention by playing on a losing team.

Hornsby also benefitted some by prominence. He didn't play so much better than he did through the previous season but he drew a lot of notice by managing a team up into the first division.

It was unusual also to see Frank Frish, the Giant captain, and Eddie Roush, the Cincinnati outfielder, tied for ninth place. Neither was on his game last year, however.

It looks very much like Frish has reached the height of his game and for one of his years it is a disappointment.

It was a tribute to a great player when Dazzy Vance, winner of the 1924 prize, was voted fourth place, just one vote behind Wright and it was just as much of an honor for Wright to land so high among the elect in his second season in fast company.

With the exception of second and third places, there hardly can be any argument about the selections. Cuyler routers will not admit that Kelly is a more valuable player than he is and you can't convince Kelly fans that he is not deserving of second place. Words would be wasted in argument because it's all a matter of opinion.

The committee this year went a step farther in recognizing an honor list of players who didn't get enough votes to rank in the first ten.

Those on the honor list were:

Carey, 11; Meusel, 6; Luque, 5; Grimm, 5; Wheat, 4; Donohue, 4; Hargrave, 4; Harper, 3; Sand, 3; Gautreau, 2; Aldridge, 1.

Considering the votes cast it would seem that an All-Star National league team would consist of:

Catchers—Hargrave, Cincinnati, and Wilson, Philadelphia.

First Base—Kelly, New York.

Second Base—Hornsby, St. Louis.

Shortstop—Wright, Pittsburgh.

Third Base—Traynor, Pittsburgh.

Rightfield—Cuyler, Pittsburgh.

Centerfield—Roush, Cincinnati.

Leftfield—Meusel, New York.

Max Carey received one more vote than Meusel but Meusel was the ranking left fielder on the list.

Other players than those who actually received votes were placed on the honor list, after considering their ability, character, spirit, dependability and ability.

They were: Rixey, Meadows, Fournier, Blades, Sherdell, Hartnett, Critz, Cooney, McInnis, Grantham, Bell, Gooch, Adams, Young, Wheat, Benton, Carlton, Wilson, Stock, Barnhart, Pinelli, Brasser and Welch.

Sugar-Baiting the Ants

An easy way to rid the premises of ants is to soak a sponge in sweetened water and place it near where the insects congregate, either in the house or on the lawn. When the sponge is full of pests it may be dipped in scalding water and used over again.

LINCOLN SCHOOL'S GREAT CARNIVAL

Every Room Packed Full, Parent-Teachers Sponsoring the Function

MAIN CONCERT IS PLEASING

Lincoln Minstrels Played to Big Shows And Were Even Better Than Last Year

Every room in the Lincoln school was packed Saturday night for the carnival held by the Parent-Teachers association and everyone seemed to be having lots of fun.

The main concert had an excellent program which opened with two orchestra selections by the boys orchestra with little Gladys Johnson, first violin. There were two cornet solos by Donald Marchal and Dale Sanders and a trombone solo by Howard Giles, with Mrs. Norman F. Ziebell at the piano. Gladys and Leonard Johnson gave a violin duet accompanied by Miss Jessie Evans. Arthur Schwendenman accompanying himself on the ukelele sang a solo and Gladys Johnson gave a violin selection with Miss Jessie Evans at the piano. Helen Paine gave a reading in her usual good form and the concert concluded with an Indian dance by three real Redskins.

The Lincoln Minstrels were a scream and even better than last year. Standing room was at a premium. The company was composed of Esther Bentley and Lois Hall, as "Tennessee," Miss Mayme Scallen as "Phoebe Snow," Gilbert Sabin, Mrs. Roy Hall, J. Avery and son Leo Avery, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Frayer, Rowland Jenkins Rowland Jenkins, Jr., Earl Bedal as "Sambo" and Mrs. Earl Bedal as "Liza."

They sang "Lindy Lou," "Somebody's Done Me Wrong," "Liza," "Jing-a-hoo Man," "You'll Miss Your Honey," "Collegegate" and "Eam Bam Bam Shore." They were very entertaining with their new songs and dances and jokes. They had their own orchestra. The instrumentation included J. Avery, banjo; Mrs. Edward Frayer and Esther Bentley, pianists; Rowland Jenkins, Jr., saxophone; Leo Avery, trombone; Gilbert Sabin, cornet.

The hat shoppe was in charge of Mrs. John McDonald and there were little hats, big hats and paper hats and straw hats.

Mrs. Carl Bentley, assisted by Mrs. M. L. Cunningham and Misses Iva and Myla Trask had charge of the Beauty Shoppe and they had a very profitable patronage.

Dr. H. E. McGinn and Willis Cornie had the difficult task of guessing weights. If they didn't come within five pounds of the correct weight, they forfeited a nice, big popcorn ball.

Incense burners and a comfy looking corner was that greeted you in the "Men's Smoker" in charge of Mrs. J. C. Glynn and Mrs. C. G. Miller.

Pink and white crepe paper decorated a very pretty candy booth presided over by Mrs. C. H. Varner as chairman.

The fish pond and grab bag was in charge of Mrs. George Lucas as chairman where everyone might take their gambler's chance.

And then there was the ever popular lunch room in charge of Mrs. Charles Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Gilmore, Mrs. Mattie Peterson, and Mrs. Anna McQuillen where they made a specialty of Swift's Premium baked ham sandwiches.

The Lincoln P. T. A. sincerely thank the public for their patronage, all those who so kindly contributed, and the faithful workers who helped make the school carnival a success; and the Brainerd merchants who so liberally contributed to the fish pond. The sale netted the association about $250 and this will be used to purchase playground equipment, books, pictures, etc., for the school.

WOMAN DENIED PERMIT FOR BUS

The Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission Saturday granted to the Bemidji-Brainerd bus line a permit of convenience and necessity and in a second order denied the application of the Lockore Bus line, which operates parallel routes.

The two companies were recently absorbed by the Northland Transportation Co., which some time ago was granted a permit to operate lines in northern Minnesota.

Under the order of the commission the Bemidji-Brainerd bus line will operate through Cass Lake, Benediction, Walker, Hackensack, Backus, Mildred, Pine River, Jenkins, Pequot, Niswaga and Brainerd.

The commission stated that this service was needed in addition to the railroad service now given that community. However, it found that the service of the Lockore Bus line was not needed and as a result denied a certificate of operation.

The Lockore bus line was operated by Mabel L. Lockore.

As he walked back down-town Square pondered Roulette's words, "a square deal all around, even to yourself." They were a trifle puzzling. Whom had he cheated. Surely not Laure. From the very first he had protested his lack of serious interest in her, and their subsequent relations were entirely the result of her unceasing efforts to appropriate him to herself. He had resisted, she had persisted. Nor could he see that he had cheated—in other words, injured—himself. This was a liberal country; its code was free and it took little account of a man's private conduct. Nobody seriously blamed him for his affair with Laure; he had lost no standing by reason of it. It was only a part of the big adventure, a passing phase of his development, an experience such as came to every man. Since it had left no mark upon him, and had not seriously affected Laure, the score was even. He dismissed Roulette's words as of little consequence. In order, however, to prevent any further unpleasant scenes he determined to put Laure in her place, once for all.

Roulette went to her room, vaguely disturbed at her own emotions. She could still feel the touch of Phillips' hand, she could still feel his gaze fixed earnestly, meditatively, upon hers, and she was amazed to discover the importance he had assumed in her thoughts. Importance, that was the word. He was a very real, a very interesting person, and there was some inexplicable attraction about him that offset his faults and his failings, however grave. For one thing, he was not an automaton, like the other men; he was a living, breathing problem, and he absorbed Roulette's attention.

She was sitting on the edge of her bed, staring at the wall, when the Countess Courteau knocked at her door and entered. The women had become good friends; frequently the elder one stopped to gossip. The Countess flung herself into a chair, rolled and lit a cigarette, then said: "Well, I see you and Agnes saved the bankroll again."

Roulette nodded. "Agnes is an awful bluff. I never told her. But of course nobody knows that."

"You're a queer youngster. I've never known a girl quite like you. Everybody is talking about you."

"Indeed? Not the nice people?"

"Nice people? The Countess lifted her brows. "You mean those at the Barracks and up on the hill? Yes, they're talking about you, too."

"I can imagine what you say," Roulette drew her brows together in a frown. "No doubt they think I'm just like the dance-hall girls. I've seen a few of them—at a distance. They avoid me as if I had measles."

"Naturally. Do you care?"

"Certainly I care. I'd like to be one of them, not a specimen. Wouldn't you?"

"Um-m, perhaps. I dare say I could be one of them if it weren't for Courteau. People forget things quickly in a new country."

"Why did you take him back? I'm sure you don't care for him."

"Not in the least. He's the sort of man you can't love or hate; he's a nine-spot. Just the same, he protects me and—I can't help being sorry for him."

Roulette smiled. "Fancy you needing protection and him giving—"

"You don't understand. He protects me from myself. I mean it. I'm as unruly as the average woman and I make a fool of myself on the slightest provocation. Henri is a loafer, a good-for-nothing, to be sure, but, nevertheless, I have resumed his support. It was easier than refusing it. I help broken miners. I feed hungry dogs. Why shouldn't I clothe and feed a helpless husband? It's a perfectly feminine, illogical thing to do."

"Other people don't share your opinion of him. He can be very agreeable, very charming, when he tries."

"Of course. That's his stock in trade; that's his excuse for being. Women are crazy about him, as you probably know, but—give me a man the men like." There was a pause. "So you don't like the thing you're doing?"

"I hate it! I hate the whole atmosphere—the whole underworld. It's unhealthy, stifling."

"What has happened?"

Slowly, hesitatingly, Roulette told of her encounter with Laure. The Countess listened silently.

"It was an unpleasant shock," the girl concluded, "for it brought me back to my surroundings. It lifted the curtain and showed me what's really going on. It's a pity Pierce Phillips is entangled with that creature, for he's a nice chap and he's got it in him to do big things. But it wasn't much use my trying to tell him that he was cheating himself. I don't think he understood. I feel almost—well, motherly toward him."

Hilda nodded gravely. "Of course you do. He has it."

"Has it? What?"

"The call—the appeal—the same thing that lets Henri get by."

"Oh, he's nothing like the Count!" Roulette protested, quickly.

The elder woman did not argue the point. "Pierce has more character than Henri, but a man can lose even that in a gambling-house. I was very fond of him—fonder than I knew. Yes, it's a fact, I'm jealous of Laure, jealous of you."

"Jealous? Of me? You're joking!"

"Of course. Don't take me seriously. Nevertheless, I mean it. The Countess smiled, and rose to her feet. "It's improper for a married woman to joke about such things, even a woman married to a no-good count, isn't it? And it's foolish, too. Well, I'm going to do something even more foolish—I'm going to give you some advice. Cut out that young man. He hasn't found himself yet; he's running wild. He's light in ballast and he's rudderless. If he straightens out he'll make some woman very happy; otherwise—he'll create a good deal of havoc. Believe me, I know what I'm talking about, for I collided with Henri and—look at the result!"

(To be continued)

'Lovers in Quarantine' Bebe Daniels' Latest at Lyceum

Bebe Daniels and Harrison Ford—there's a combination which should tickle the comedy-loving public's palate.

These two laugh-makers play opposite each other in Bebe's latest Paramount starring picture, "Lovers in Quarantine," coming to the Lyceum theatre for a two days' run on Tuesday.

Frank Tuttle, who made "Miss Bluebeard" and "The Lucky Devil" directed the production.

"The Trouble With Wives" True-to-Life Paramount Film

There's a sure cure for the trouble with wives and husbands, too, at the Lyceum theatre tonight in the Paramount picture, "The Trouble With Wives," featuring Florence Vidor, Tom Moore, Esther Ralston and Ford Sterling.

The story, written especially for the screen by Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin, is a comedy of newly married life. As the wife, Grace Hyatt, Florence Vidor wants only to be alone with her husband, to sit before the fire with him and memorize the days of their courtship.

Varieties in Sabers

The Italian saber was introduced into England in 1800. It was already popular in other European countries. Both edge and point are sharp in continental countries of Europe, but not in Great Britain—the back edge is sharpened only for some eight inches from the point.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Dec. 7.—Stocks made further progress on the side of advancing prices at the start of the new week notwithstanding a rise in call money to 5½ per cent. This stiffening was due to preparations for tax payments and government financing due the middle of the month. Consequently it was ignored by bullish interests whose buying operations went ahead with considerable aggressiveness in many sections of the list.

Railroad shares were favored owing to the optimism felt over the outlook for early action on the more important consolidations now that congress has convened. New highs on the current advances were reached by Atlantic Coast Line, Louisville and Nashville, Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania and other representative issues. Price movements in the industrial list were less uniform, owing to spurts of selling in Industrial Alcohol, American Can and other special issues. However, this class of stocks maintained a fairly buoyant tone and substantial advances occurred in numerous

Cod Liver Oil in Sugar Coated Tablets Puts on Flesh and Builds Them Up

In just a few days—quicker than you ever dreamed of—these wonderful health building, flesh making tablets called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets will start to help any thin, underweight little one.

After sickness and where rickets are suspected they are especially valuable. No need to give them any more nasty Cod Liver Oil—these tablets are made to take the place of that good, but evil smelling, stomach upsetting medicine and they surely do it.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

Ask H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets as easy to take as candy—60 tablets 60 cents and money back if not satisfied.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF MINNESOTA, FIFTH DIVISION

In the matter of 10,000 Lakes Garage, Inc., a corporation, Bankrupt, in Bankruptcy.

Notice is hereby given that on the 17th day of November, A. D. 1925, the said 10,000 Lakes Garage, Inc., a corporation was duly adjudged bankrupt and the first meeting of creditors will be held at the office of the undersigned, 666 Palladio Building, Duluth, Minnesota, on Monday, the 21st day of December, A. D. 1925, at 11 o'clock A. M., at which time the creditors may attend, prove their claims and elect a trustee, examine the officers of the bankrupt corporation and transact such other business as may properly come before the meeting. At the time of said first meeting an immediate sale of the assets will be considered.

WILLIAM O. PEALER, Referee in Bankruptcy.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Four Thousand Eight Hundred Thirteen and no/100 ($4,813.00) Dollars, principal and interest, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by G. B. Jenkins and Mae Jenkins, his wife, Mortgagees, to National Farmers Bank of Owatonna, Mortgagee, bearing date the 9th day of April, 1917, and with a power of sale therein contained duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Crow Wing and State of Minnesota, on the 15th day of May, 1917, at 9:00 o'clock A. M. in Book 19 of Mortgages, Range 572 and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, Therefore, Notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said Mortgage, viz: Lot Number Seven (7) in Section Number Twenty-four (24), and Lot Number Five (5) in Section Number Twenty-three (23), all in Township Number One Hundred Thirty-eight (138), Range Number Twenty-seven (27), containing 57.97 acres, more or less, according to the U. S. Government survey thereof. Except one-half (½) of the acreage in Crow Wing County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Crow Wing County, at public sale, due to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of Four Thousand Eight Hundred Thirteen and no/100 Dollars and interest, and the taxes thereon, and the costs and charges, and Seventy-five ($75.00) Dollars, Attorney's Fees, as stipulated in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the balance of said debt, if any, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated November 27th, A. D. 1925. National Farmers Bank of Owatonna, Mortgagee.
